Cong Terrorists Give Saigon Day Of Non-Violence

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong gave Saigon a day of rest from terrorism on the fifth anniversary of their National Liberation Front today but renewed their violence at nightfall.

A terrorist hurled a grenade at a truckload of U.S. soldiers after dark as the vehicle passed over a bridge on the northern outskirts of the city en route to a U.S. base.

The grenade bounced off the rear of the truck and exploded in the street, slightly injuring two Americans and five or six Vietnamese, U.S. officials said.

The incident occurred despite the tightest security in years in the city of more than 1.4 million to guard against any major birthday incident. Officials said the wave of terrorism could continue until the new year.

The Communists took no holiday in the field.

Two Viet Cong companies attacked two outposts of the Tuyen Nhon Special Forces camp in the Plain of Reeds 40 miles west of Saigon. The U. S.-advised government forces threw back the Communists with tactical air support and claimed 29 Viet Cong killed.

Twelve miles farther west, battalions of South Vietnamese regional troops slammed into a Viet Cong hideout, killing 26 Communists and destroying 30 sampans and 53 buildings, spokesmen reported. The attack force also captured 12 sampans and found more than 100 grenades and a dozen weapons.

With an improvement in the weather, U. S. warplanes ended a two-day lull in the raids on North Viet Nam. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs dropped 49 tons of bombs and rockets on the Bac Can highway bridge 75 miles north of Hanoi, spokesmen said. Pilots reported two spans down, a third damaged and damage to six anti-aircraft positions nearby that protect the strategic supply route from Red China.

LBJ Lauds Pope's Call For Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today President Johnson welcomes the latest call by Pope Paul VI for peace in Viet Nam and is doing all he can to bring that about.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, asked for official comment on the Pope's endorsement Sunday of the idea of a Christmas cease-fire, said:

"The President welcomes this new expression by the Pope of the need for peace in the world and specifically in Southeast Asia. He regards the Pope as one of the great men of peace and believes his concern for peace is an indication that most men throughout the world want peace."

Moyers said nothing about the Viet Cong offer of a Christmas cease-fire but instead restated the view that "we will talk unconditionally any time the other side is ready."

Lancaster Cemetery Is Hit by Vandals

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Elmwood Cemetery's tombstones were knocked into disarray over the weekend, some 115 of them overturned by vandals.

Police nabbed two boys age 9 and 10 Saturday after a couple of markers were knocked down. Then Saturday night, more than 100 stones were overturned, with 12 ruined beyond repair.

Viet War To Be Dominant Issue on Congress Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders are in general agreement that the dominant issue in the session convening Jan. 10 will be the Viet Nam war.

Sharing the spotlight in what may be a long and bitter session will be labor legislation, the administration's "Great Society" programs and perhaps taxes.

Many members took advantage of the fall recess to visit Viet Nam. They returned with conflicting opinions on how the war is being conducted and their differing views should touch off sharp debate.

There is little that Congress can do about how the war is being fought, except to appropriate money to foot the bill. But the fact that it is being waged and is costing a lot of money will be reflected in consideration of nonmilitary legislation.

"One of the basic issues," said Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House Republican leader, "will be the need to curtail nondefense programs. We are face to face with the decision between guns and butter. The war is real and we must pay for it."

"But some other programs," Ford added in an interview, "while perhaps worthy, do not have the same top priority. We must take a hard look at the 'Great Society' measures."

New U.S. Education Chieftain Is Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold Howe II has been named the new U.S. commissioner of education.

He'll take over in January from Francis Keppel who then will be able to devote full time to his other job of assistant secretary of health, education and welfare.

President Johnson announced his selection of Howe on Saturday.

Howe, 47, has been director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina, a center for education research, since May 1964.

rammed through during the recent session. They are expensive and will continue to be expensive. We Republicans are going to try to cut down some of this unnecessary spending.

"We are going to solidly oppose any new taxes," Ford said. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, took a somewhat similar stand on taxes.

Said Mills: "If federal government spending is held under reasonable restraint, the growth of the economy will both make possible and require periodic tax reductions."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said in an interview he looked for no division in Congress over foreign policy.

"The people of the country are united behind the President's leadership in foreign policy, particularly in Viet Nam," McCormack said.

Solar Spacecraft Returning Data

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP)—Pioneer 6, the solar research spacecraft launched Thursday from Cape Kennedy, was reported streaking toward the sun at 63,387 miles an hour today.

The 140-pound spacecraft was returning data on solar particles and magnetism, said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center.

A report late Sunday night placed the spacecraft more than 503,000 miles from earth. Its six-month, 50-million-mile journey will carry it on an orbit around the sun between Earth and Venus.

3000 Sailors Missing

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Three thousand fishermen are missing and believed drowned in the cyclone which hit the southern part of East Pakistan last Wednesday, the Manoharkali fishermen's cooperative society said today.

Borman and Lovell are scheduled to stay at Cape Kennedy until Wednesday, concentrating on medical examinations. They then plan to fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., to begin eight days of telling and retelling the story of their marathon flight to project officials.

Of prime interest to researchers is finding out how much calcium was lost during the space flight.

Other tests will show whether a heart gets "lazy" in the weightlessness of outer space, and how much of a strain it puts on a spaceman returning to earth's gravity.

Some researchers fear that over a long period of time calcium loss could make bones dangerously brittle.

Reported Viet Peace Feeler Causes Hassle

France Likes Gen. DeGaulle

New 7-Year Term Granted Leader

PARIS (AP)—France settled back for more years of Gaullism today following President Charles de Gaulle's re-election to another seven-year term.

Although De Gaulle's failure to win on the first ballot two weeks ago gave clear notice that his popularity had slipped, almost no one expected the autocratic old man to alter his policy goals. He may soften his methods, however.

In the run-off election Sunday, complete returns from European France and all overseas territories except Guiana and Polynesia gave the 75-year-old president 13,063,134, or 55.18 per cent. Leftist Francois Mitterrand got 10,600,744.

About 84 per cent of the registered voters balloted, a near record turnout.

Mitterrand termed De Gaulle's victory "mediocre" and said he would turn his attention to the National Assembly elections in November 1967.

"All my efforts," he said, "will be to make the legislative elections the decisive engagement which will save the republic from the adventure into which a discounted Gaullism is going to plunge it."

De Gaulle, who begins his new term Jan. 8, issued no victory statement from the seclusion of his estate in eastern France. His supporters were overjoyed that he had pulled out a comfortable margin after his humiliating first-round setback, in which he won only 43.9 per cent of the vote.

On the international scene, De Gaulle faces two items of unfinished business.

One is the negotiations in the six-nation European Common Market, which De Gaulle brought to an abrupt halt last June to block attempts to give the economic community's executive more power.

De Gaulle opposes any move toward supernationality by the Common Market administration. The five other members scheduled a meeting in Brussels today to discuss the impasse. They hoped for some word from De Gaulle that he is ready to talk again.

The second major international item on De Gaulle's agenda is reform of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. De Gaulle has called for an end to military integration in the 15-nation alliance and has warned that a basic change is not made, France will bow out by 1969. Concrete proposals by De Gaulle for changes in NATO are expected early in 1966.

Great Lakes Region Gets Snow Blanket

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow blanketed much of the Great Lakes region today, while from northeastern Ohio to Vermont flurries tapered off after considerable accumulations in upper New York State.

Hardest hit by the snowfall Sunday were the Adirondack foothills. The hamlet of Highmarket reported 25 inches and other cities in the snow belt received from 12 to 15 inches.

Because few roads cross this part of the state, no major problems resulted from the heavy snowfall.

A slick coat of new snow covered most sections from northern Illinois through Minnesota.

In the far South, generous rains soaked much of Florida. Orlando reported more than an inch.

In the Far West, low temperatures continued today to be the rule. Much of eastern Nevada experienced its fifth day of below-zero readings. It was 11 below at Elko, Nev.

Peace Shattered In Dominica

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The precarious peace efforts in the Dominican Republic appeared today to have been dealt a shattering setback by a battle between army troops and former rebels.

At least 13 persons were believed killed in two shooting incidents Sunday. Twelve were reported killed in a six-hour battle that raged around a hotel on the outskirts of Santiago, the country's No. 2 city.

There were conflicting reports on the cause of the battle that pitched army tanks against an estimated 125 former rebels barricaded in the rambling, two-story Hotel Mautin. Shooting ended following the arrival of 150 U.S. paratroopers of the Inter-American Peace Force.

The violence spread to Santo Domingo, 120 miles to the south, where a policeman was disarmed and fatally shot through the head by a member of an angry pro-rebel mob, one of many roaming the littered downtown streets.

The tensions and threats by civilians in Santo Domingo to bring out hidden weapons prompted the IAPF to reinforce its small garrisons in the former rebel territory downtown.

Shooting could be heard in scattered parts of the capital late into the night. IAPF sources said none of the shooting involved the hemisphere army that was organized and brought there in early May to help forge a peace in the Dominican revolution.

Teen-Age Pair Is Abducted, Then Shot

TROY, Ohio (AP)—A teenage couple were abducted from the shopping center where they had stopped for pizza, then were shot and left for dead at separate spots out of town Saturday night.

The hunt for the gunman was still on today while Marcela Rutt, 18, lay in critical condition and Jerry Morehead, 19, also was under treatment for serious wounding.

The couple drove over from Christiansburg, their home in Champaign County, and came into Troy to visit the market.

They were able to tell officers an unidentified man left a 1955 station wagon and forced his way into their 1965 auto. The intruder made them drive out into the country, where it was believed he tried to assault the girl, then shot her first and shot the boy afterward.

Miss Rutt was found along Ohio 504 and Morehead on Troy-Piqua Road, at spots three or four miles apart and about four miles out of town.

The youth's car was found at the shopping center, where the abductor evidently returned to his own vehicle to flee.

Heroic Rescuer Couldn't Save Self

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—A visit with the folks in Ross County, a stroll across a trestle, an approaching train—then swift rescue work by Deldon Ohler.

But he couldn't save himself. Ohler, 34, of Centerville was struck and killed by a freight train after managing to help his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ethel Davis, to a beam below the tracks and to lower his nephew Jeff Sullivan, 5, to her.

Knocked onto a platform about 20 feet down, Ohler died in surgery at Chillicothe Hospital.

The accident scene was near the home of his wife's family five miles west of here.

Hanoi Denies Advance Made

2 Italians Tied To Original Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration found itself caught up today in a stormy dispute over its publication of correspondence reporting and probing a conditional peace offer from Communist North Viet Nam.

The storm overshadowed the central question whether Hanoi had in fact made an authentic approach for a settlement on its own terms and might yet respond to a U.S. request for clarification of conditions in it.

President Johnson could try to revive the roundabout peace exchange with President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam by sending some kind of new message in Ho's direction, but administration officials said today that there had been no decision on any new U.S. action. The secrecy covers were torn from the incident last Friday afternoon after the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported that a new peace offer from Hanoi had been rejected by the United States.

Amid denials from Tanoi that any peace feeler had been sent, Dr. Giorgio La Pira, former mayor of Florence and a left-wing Christian Democrat, one of the principal intermediaries in the affair, insisted that the offer had been made.

His traveling colleague, Prof. Mario Primicerio, accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of sabotaging the bid. "Secretary of State Dean Rusk is to be blamed," he said, "because he obviously wanted this mission to fail by disclosing in advance what had been done." Later the 24-year-old linguist denied having said this, but the journalist who interviewed him said the quote was correct.

State Department officials, calling the charge outrageous, said the publication was forced by concern for what they contended was a partially erroneous account which had already become public. Rusk was reported angered and upset by the criticism.

Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and another who played the role of go-between, said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" the administration would have "preferred to carry on this discussion in privacy" but was faced with a "crisis of confidence" with the public over the credibility of its peace policy. Goldberg argued the administration acted correctly in releasing the correspondence.

Goldberg said he did not think disclosure of the exchange over peace negotiations would hurt any chances that now exist for such talks.

"I think we would continue to hope that this matter will be transferred from the battlefield to the conference table. So I do not feel discouraged," he said.

"If there is a genuine desire on both sides to negotiate, that desire will surmount whatever the difficulties are of disclosure."

North Viet Nam itself denounced the whole thing Saturday as a hoax and in effect denied that a peace probe had been made.

The Communist Chinese chimed in Sunday, calling the report of peace feelers a "U.S.-made hoax" which "fools nobody."

U.S. officials here were impressed by the degree of confirmation in the Hanoi broadcast, however, of the main mechanical fact of the reported peace offer—the meeting Nov. 11 between La Pira and Italian Professor Mario Primicerio, with Ho and Premier Pham Van Dong.

The North Vietnamese announcement differed in its emphasis from the account which La Pira passed on to Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, the U.N. General Assembly president, and which Fanfani reported to Washington in a Nov. 20 letter to President Johnson.

4-Satellite Launch Slated

Titan To Orbit Package Tuesday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A triple-barreled Air Force Titan 3 is scheduled to kick four separate satellites into an orbit more than 20,000 miles above the equator Tuesday to climax one of the most complex unmanned space missions ever planned.

Riding on the nose of the three-legged booster, the nation's most powerful rocket now in use, will be two experimental communications satellites, a satellite which will study activities of the sun and a fourth satellite for ham radio operators.

Liftoff is scheduled for 9 a.m. (EST).

The amateur radio satellite, called Oscar 4, is sort of a poor man's Telstar. Like three other Oscar satellites which preceded it, Oscar 4 was built by the American Radio Relay League, a group of space engineers whose hobby is ham radio.

Oscar stands for Orbiting Satellite Carrying Amateur Radio. Oscar 4 is a complete radio frequency transmitter capable of simultaneously receiving voice and telegraph signals at 144 megacycles and retransmitting them at 432 megacycles.

The two communications satellite, developed by the Lincoln Laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and named Les 3 and Les 4, are designed to test devices for future military defense communications satellite systems.

The sun-studying satellite, called OV2-3, will carry 15 experiments, the Air Force said, including various tests of the effect of natural radiation on living tissue.

The mission will be one of the most complicated ever undertaken, lasting some six hours and involving over 150 events.

The four satellites—which make the entire payload weigh 931 pounds—will be placed in space so they hover above the equator more than 20,000 miles over Galapagos Island, west of Peru.

3 Days of Medical Checks Await Record-Setting Gemini 7 Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr., who sailed far enough during their two weeks in space to make 10 round trips to the moon, begin three days of medical checks here today to determine what physical rigors space travel has on man.

People who talked with the astronauts said their main complaint of the 14-day flight was the confinement—they couldn't stretch out. They asserted they dreamed a lot during the mission, sources said. And Borman was quoted as saying that Lovell was dreaming "all the time."

Food on board the spacecraft—some of it dehydrated—got tedious and somewhat objectionable toward the end of the flight, the sources noted.

Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell, as well as Gemini 7 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford, praised the Titan 2 booster and Gemini spacecraft.

All four also remarked how easy it was to see through each other's spacecraft windows while they were rendezvousing high above the earth Wednesday.

Schirra was quoted as saying that the Gemini 7 capsule appeared twice as bright as the brightest star, Sirius, when he was approaching it and Schirra and Stafford indicated that rendezvous was easier than they thought.

Stafford and Schirra copiloted two small airplanes on Thursday from the prime recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, to Bemud.

On the way, sources said, they tried to fly their two aircraft in formation and noted that it was much easier to pilot two Gemini spacecraft in formation, even though the spaceships were speeding at 17,500 miles an hour.

Persons who talked with the astronauts quoted Borman as saying he thought future spacemen should not have to fly in bulky space suits on long-duration flights. And if a "back up" pressure system is needed, Borman suggested it be built into the spacecraft rather than the space suit, sources noted.

The two Gemini 7 pilots flew much of their mission in their underwear, and would have done it even more if Mission Control permitted them.

Borman and Lovell are scheduled to stay at Cape Kennedy until Wednesday, concentrating on medical examinations. They then plan to fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., to begin eight days of telling and retelling the story of their marathon flight to project officials.

2 Italians Tied To Original Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration found itself caught up today in a stormy dispute over its publication of correspondence reporting and probing a conditional peace offer from Communist North Viet Nam.

The storm overshadowed the central question whether Hanoi had in fact made an authentic approach for a settlement on its own terms and might yet respond to a U.S. request for clarification of conditions in it.

President Johnson could try to revive the roundabout peace exchange with President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam by sending some kind of new message in Ho's direction, but administration officials said today that there had been no decision on any new U.S. action. The secrecy covers were torn from the incident last Friday afternoon after the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported that a new peace offer from Hanoi had been rejected by the United States.

Amid denials from Tanai that any peace feeler had been sent, Dr. Giorgio La Pira, former mayor of Florence and a left-wing Christian Democrat, one of the principal intermediaries in the affair, insisted that the offer had been made.

His traveling colleague, Prof. Mario Primicerio, accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk of sabotaging the bid. "Secretary of State Dean Rusk is to be blamed," he said, "because he obviously wanted this mission to fail by disclosing in advance what had been done." Later the 24-year-old linguist denied having said this, but the journalist who interviewed him said the quote was correct.

State Department officials, calling the charge outrageous, said the publication was forced by concern for what they contended was a partially erroneous account which had already become public. Rusk was reported angered and upset by the criticism.

Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and another who played the role of go-between, said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" the administration would have "preferred to carry on this discussion in privacy" but was faced with a "crisis of confidence" with the public over the credibility of its peace policy. Goldberg argued the administration acted correctly in releasing the correspondence.

Goldberg said he did not think disclosure of the exchange over peace negotiations would hurt any chances that now exist for such talks.

"I think we would continue to hope that this matter will be transferred from the battlefield to the conference table. So I do not feel discouraged," he said.

"If there is a genuine desire on both sides to negotiate, that desire will surmount whatever the difficulties are of disclosure."

North Viet Nam itself denounced the whole thing Saturday as a hoax and in effect denied that a peace probe had been made.

The Communist Chinese chimed in Sunday, calling the report of peace feelers a "U.S.-made hoax" which "fools nobody."

U.S. officials here were impressed by the degree of confirmation in the Hanoi broadcast, however, of the main mechanical fact of the reported peace offer — the meeting Nov. 11 between La Pira and Italian Professor Mario Primicerio, with Ho and Premier Pham Van Dong.

The North Vietnamese announcement differed in its emphasis from the account which La Pira passed on to Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, the U.N. General Assembly president, and which Fanfani reported to Washington in a Nov. 20 letter to President Johnson.

4-Satellite Launch Slated

Titan To Orbit Package Tuesday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A triple-barreled Air Force Titan 3 is scheduled to kick four separate satellites into an orbit more than 20,000 miles above the equator Tuesday to climax one of the most complex unmanned space missions ever planned.

Riding on the nose of the three-legged booster, the nation's most powerful rocket now in use, will be two experimental communications satellites, a satellite which will study activities of the sun and a fourth satellite for ham radio operators.

Lift-off is scheduled for 9 a.m. (EST).

The amateur radio satellite, called Oscar 4, is sort of a poor man's Telstar. Like three other Oscar satellites which preceded it, Oscar 4 was built by the American Radio Relay League, a group of space engineers whose hobby is ham radio.

Oscar stands for Orbiting Satellite Carrying Amateur Radio. Oscar 4 is a complete radio frequency transmitter capable of simultaneously receiving voice and telegraph signals at 144 megacycles and retransmitting them at 432 megacycles.

The two communications satellite, developed by the Lincoln Laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and named Les 3 and Les 4, are designed to test devices for future military defense communications satellite systems.

The sun-studying satellite, called OV2-3, will carry 15 experiments, the Air Force said, including various tests of the effect of natural radiation on living tissue.

The mission will be one of the most complicated ever undertaken, lasting some six hours and involving over 150 events.

The four satellites — which make the entire payload weigh 931 pounds — will be placed in space so they hover above the equator more than 20,000 miles over Galapagos Island, west of Peru.

3 Days of Medical Checks Await Record-Setting Gemini 7 Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr., who sailed far enough during their two weeks in space to make 10 round trips to the moon, begin three days of medical checks here today to determine what physical rigors space travel has on man.

People who talked with the astronauts said their main complaint of the 14-day flight was the confinement — they couldn't stretch out. They asserted they dreamed a lot during the mission, sources said. And Borman was quoted as saying that Lovell was dreaming "all the time."

Food on board the spacecraft — some of it dehydrated — got tedious and somewhat objectionable toward the end of the

flight, the sources noted.

Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell, as well as Gemini 7 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford, praised the Titan 2 booster and Gemini spacecraft.

All four also remarked how easy it was to see through each other's spacecraft windows while they were rendezvousing high above the earth Wednesday.

Schirra was quoted as saying that the Gemini 7 capsule appeared twice as bright as the brightest star, Sirius, when he was approaching it and Schirra and Stafford indicated that rendezvous was easier than they thought.

Stafford and Schirra copiloted two small airplanes on Thursday from the prime recovery

ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, to Bemud.

On the way, sources said, they tried to fly their two aircraft in formation and noted that it was much easier to pilot two Gemini spacecraft in formation, even though the spaceships were speeding at 17,500 miles an hour.

Persons who talked with the astronauts quoted Borman as saying he thought future spacemen should not have to fly in bulky space suits on long-duration flights. And if a "back up" pressure system is needed, Borman suggested it be built into the spacecraft rather than the space suit, sources noted.

The two Gemini 7 pilots flew much of their mission in their underwear, and would have done it even more if Mission Control permitted them.

Borman and Lovell are scheduled to stay at Cape Kennedy until Wednesday, concentrating on medical examinations. They then plan to fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., to begin eight days of telling and retelling the story of their marathon flight to project officials.

Of prime interest to researchers is finding out how much calcium was lost during the space flight.

Other tests will show whether a heart gets "lazy" in the weightlessness of outer space, and how much of a strain it puts on a spaceman returning to earth's gravity.

Some researchers fear that over a long period of time calcium loss could make bones dangerously brittle.

Famous 'Yes, Virginia' Flees Blaze

OLD CHATHAM, N.Y. (AP)—The Virginia whose childhood question about Santa Claus inspired a famous editorial 68 years ago is especially aware of the Christmas spirit this year.

Two months ago Mrs. Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas, 76, fled the burning home she shared with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Temple, and her family.

They were sheltered first by neighbors, then by relatives. Finally, a couple offered the rental of a handsomely restored old farmhouse.

As an 8-year-old, Virginia O'Hanlon wrote to the New York Sun, asking for the truth about Santa Claus. In an editorial Francis P. Church replied:

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist."

"We have really experienced the spirit of that editorial," said Mrs. Douglas. "We know that love and generosity exists."

Police Probe Series of Vandalisms

Circleville Police Saturday investigated a series of incidents where cement blocks were thrown at autos in the south end.

The first report came from Arthur Johnson, 131 Edison Ave., at 10:09 a. m. Making a routine patrol of the area after investigating the report, Police discovered a block beside an automobile at 431 S. Pickaway St.

Two other residents lodged complaints on similar incidents. Carl Kegg, 124 Town St., reported his car, as well as one owned by Yates Motor Co., had been damaged. Mrs. William Leedom, 128 Town St., notified officers of the same kind of vandalism.

Stock Mart Prices Drift

NEW YORK (AP) — Losses deepened in a declining stock market early this afternoon but trading was relatively slack.

Aerospace defense stocks were the first group to show sharp losses as they reacted to uncertainty about the reported Viet Nam peace feeler.

Electronics, most of whom are defense-related, followed along. Airlines, electrical equipments and oils also showed some sharp losses.

Steel were higher in early trading but they erased most of their gain and began to ease. Autos were down from the start. Some losses worsened in the group.

Rails held fairly steady after trimming early advances.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.0 at 355.2 with industrials off 2.1, rails unchanged and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.40 at 953.45.

Angry labor leaders blamed the army and demanded that Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy fire the military chiefs or face a general strike. The president persuaded the labor leaders to wait until he has a chance to investigate and punish those responsible.

The Santiago fighting took the lives of nine army regulars and two rebels, including Col. Juan Lora Fernandez, former chief of staff of the rebel army. An unidentified civilian who joined the rebels inside the hotel also was killed, the hotel manager said.

Thirteen out of 18 Americans registered at the 45-room hotel were evacuated safely to a nearby air base, U. S. Embassy sources said. The other five were not at the hotel at the time.

All the Americans are working on a technical aid project initiated by Texas A&M University at the School of Superior Agricultural Studies near Santiago.

Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, the armed forces secretary, said the rebels started the battle by firing on army patrols. Rebel Capt. Jesus de la Rosa claimed the army opened fire on the hotel "without provocation." A rebel officer also denied an army claim that the rebels were armed with two heavy machine guns.

Universal Social Security Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Chamber of Commerce task force says all Americans should be brought into the Social Security program.

The 100-member group, headed by editor Ervin D. Canham of the Christian Science Monitor, made its proposal in the second phase of a study of poverty.

The second report — on the sick, disabled and aged — also said the $44 minimum monthly Social Security benefit is unrealistically low.

Pedestrian Cited in Crash Is Fined $25 in City Court

A pedestrian was fined $25 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today for failure to yield the right of way to an automobile.

Officers said Ada Kneec of Circleville Saturday walked into the path of a car driven by Mary Cecilia Vogel, 21, Columbus. They said Mrs. Vogel swerved to avoid striking the pedestrian and her car struck a guard rail as a result.

The mishap occurred on Route 23 at the intersection of Route 22 just west of Circleville.

In addition to being charged for failure to yield the right of way she was cited for intoxication. Judge Sterling M. Lamb levied a fine of $10 and costs on the later charge. She pleaded guilty to both.

The names of motorists appearing today on the completed Municipal Court Traffic docket were:

Freddie Blackburn, 24, Detroit, Mich.; Donna Abdon, 19, Greenup, Ky.; Robert Myers Jr., Jackson; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Russell Pridemore, 27, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Patricia Mugford, 28, Huntington, W. Va.; $8 and costs for speeding 68 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

David Rothrock, 21, Lockborne; $50 and costs for reckless operation.

Edward Gockenbach, 69, Columbus; $22.75 bond forfeiture for speeding 73 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Forfeiting $19 bonds for exceeding the speed limit by 10 miles per hour were:

Louis Singer, 42, Birmingham, Mich.; Walter Gray, 37, Circleville; Carolyn Harr, 21, Columbus; Charles Grear, 64, Columbus.

Arnold Glassburn, 22, Bidwell,

$24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

George Kiser, 38, Tiffin; $25 bond forfeiture for speeding 76 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Norman Barrett, 29, Oxford, Mich.; $29 bond forfeiture for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

18 Counties In Line for Food Stamps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal food stamp program may be extended early next year to 18 additional Ohio counties, State Welfare Director Denver L. White said Monday.

White said priorities have been established according to the number of welfare recipients in each county and that the list of new counties has been forwarded to the Chicago office of the U. S. Agriculture Department's Midwest Consumer Marketing Service.

The counties are Lawrence, Ross, Muskingum, Jackson, Athens, Pike, Summit, Montgomery, Stark, Scioto Mahoning Lorrain, Trumbull, Clark, Jefferson, Allen, Richland, and Lake.

Food stamp plans already are being operated in Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Toledo, and Columbus is scheduled to begin its program next month.

White described the stamp plan as a substitute for the commodity distribution program. He said it provides for recipients of any type of public assistance to purchase stamps and receive a bonus. The bonus is negotiable in almost all retail food stores for all kinds of food products except those with foreign labels.

Famous 'Yes, Virginia' Flees Blaze

OLD CHATHAM, N.Y. (AP)—The Virginia whose childhood question about Santa Claus inspired a famous editorial 68 years ago is especially aware of the Christmas spirit this year.

Two months ago Mrs. Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas, 76, fled the burning home she shared with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Temple, and her family.

They were sheltered first by neighbors, then by relatives. Finally, a couple offered the rental of a handsomely restored old farmhouse.

As an 8-year-old, Virginia O'Hanlon wrote to the New York Sun, asking for the truth about Santa Claus. In an editorial Francis P. Church replied:

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist..."

"We have really experienced the spirit of that editorial," said Mrs. Douglas. "We know that love and generosity exists."

Police Probe Series of Vandalisms

Circleville Police Saturday investigated a series of incidents where cement blocks were thrown at autos in the south-end.

The first report came from Arthur Johnson, 131 Edison Ave., at 10:09 a.m. Making a routine patrol of the area after investigating the report, police discovered a block beside an automobile at 431 S. Pickaway St.

Two other residents lodged complaints on similar incidents. Carl Kegg, 124 Town St., reported his car, as well as one owned by Yates Motor Co., had been damaged. Mrs. William Leedom, 128 Town St., notified officers of the same kind of vandalism.

Stock Mart Prices Drift

NEW YORK (AP)—Losses deepened in a declining stock market early this afternoon but trading was relatively slack.

Aerospace defense stocks were the first group to show sharp losses as they reacted to uncertainty about the reported Viet Nam peace feeler.

Electronics, most of whom are defense-related, followed along. Airlines, electrical equipments and oils also showed some sharp losses.

Steel were higher in early trading but they erased most of their gain and began to ease. Autos were down from the start. Some losses worsened in the group.

Rails held fairly steady after trimming early advances.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.0 at 355.2 with industrials off 2.1, rails unchanged and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.40 at 953.45.

Angry labor leaders blamed the army and demanded that Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy fire the military chiefs or face a general strike. The president persuaded the labor leaders to wait until he has a chance to investigate and punish those responsible.

The Santiago fighting took the lives of nine army regulars and two rebels, including Col. Juan Lora Fernandez, former chief of staff of the rebel army. An unidentified civilian who joined the rebels inside the hotel also was killed, the hotel manager said.

Thirteen out of 18 Americans registered at the 45-room hotel were evacuated safely to a nearby air base, U.S. Embassy sources said. The other five were not at the hotel at the time.

All the Americans are working on a technical aid project initiated by Texas A&M University at the School of Superior Agricultural Studies near Santiago.

Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, the armed forces secretary, said the rebels started the battle by firing on army patrols. Rebel Capt. Jesus de la Rosa claimed the army opened fire on the hotel "without provocation." A rebel officer also denied an army claim that the rebels were armed with two heavy machine guns.

Universal Social Security Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Chamber of Commerce task force says all Americans should be brought into the Social Security program.

The 100-member group, headed by editor Erwin D. Canham of the Christian Science Monitor, made its proposal in the second phase of a study of poverty.

The second report — on the sick, disabled and aged — also said the $44 minimum monthly Social Security benefit is unrealistically low.

Pedestrian Cited in Crash Is Fined $25 in City Court

A pedestrian was fined $25 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today for failure to yield the right of way to an automobile.

Officers said Ada Kneese of Circleville Saturday walked into the path of a car driven by Mary Cecilia Vogel, 21, Columbus. They said Mrs. Vogel swerved to avoid striking the pedestrian and her car struck a guard rail as a result.

The mishap occurred on Route 23 at the intersection of Route 22 just west of Circleville.

In addition to being charged for failure to yield the right of way she was cited for intoxication. Judge Sterling M. Lamb levied a fine of $10 and costs on the later charge. She pleaded guilty to both.

The names of motorists appearing today on the completed Municipal Court Traffic docket were:

Freddie Blackburn, 24, Detroit, Mich.; Donna Abdon, 19, Greenup, Ky.; Robert Myers Jr., Jackson, $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Russell Pridemore, 27, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Patricia Mugford, 28, Huntington, W. Va.; $8 and costs for speeding 68 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

David Rothrock, 21, Lockborne; $50 and costs for reckless operation.

Edward Gockenbach, 69, Columbus; $22.75 bond forfeiture for speeding 73 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Forfeiting $19 bonds for exceeding the speed limit by 10 miles per hour were:

Louis Singer, 42, Birmingham, Mich.; Walter Gray, 37, Circleville; Carolyn Harr, 21, Columbus; Charles Grear, 64, Columbus.

Arnold Glassburn, 22, Bidwell,

$24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

George Kiser, 38, Tiffin; $25 bond forfeiture for speeding 76 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Norman Barrett, 29, Oxford, Mich.; $29 bond forfeiture for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

18 Counties In Line for Food Stamps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal food stamp program may be extended early next year to 18 additional Ohio counties, State Welfare Director Denver L. White said Monday.

White said priorities have been established according to the number of welfare recipients in each county and that the list of new counties has been forwarded to the Chicago office of the U.S. Agriculture Department's Midwest Consumer Marketing Service.

The counties are Lawrence, Ross, Muskingum, Jackson, Athens, Pike, Summit, Montgomery, Stark, Scioto, Mahoning, Lorain, Trumbull, Clark, Jefferson, Allen, Richland, and Lake.

Food stamp plans already are being operated in Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Toledo, and Columbus is scheduled to begin its program next month.

White described the stamp plan as a substitute for the commodity distribution program. He said it provides for recipients of any type of public assistance to purchase stamps and receive a bonus. The bonus is negotiable in almost all retail food stores for all kinds of food products except those with foreign labels.

Accused Man Cuts Wrist

Johnny Demarsay, alias William Walker, who is being held in the Pickaway County Jail for Missouri authorities, slashed the wrist of his left hand early today, Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said.

Demarsay was taken to Berger Hospital where seven stitches were required to close the wound. According to Sheriff Radcliff, the wound was self-inflicted.

Demarsay was arrested in August by the State Highway Patrol and charged with carrying a concealed weapon. At that time it was discovered he was driving a car stolen in Kansas City. Mo. Authorities from Missouri are to arrive here either today or tomorrow to take him back to stand trial for auto theft.

Earth-Mover Pilot
Drives on Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State Limited, on its New York - Cleveland-Columbus-Cincinnati run, was four hours behind schedule Saturday and barreling down the tracks.

The earth-mover operator at a freeway construction site off the regular highway at suburban Worthington, just north of here, drove up to the tracks.

The flagman directing construction vehicle traffic had stepped into a shack to use the telephone. Without his signal, none of the work vehicles was supposed to cross the railroad.

The earth - mover, though, started across.

"All of a sudden I could feel the train start to telescope," said Robert Henkel of Hamilton.

"I headed for the floor. I thought sure it was going to turn over."

The train had slammed the construction vehicle to pieces. The engine pancaked. The next two cars, baggage units, flipped on their sides.

But the following cars, a half-dozen coaches, though tilted askew stayed partly upright. The last few coaches didn't derail.

The road-building vehicle operator, Dana Bolin, 48, of Athens, was killed. His was the only death in the accident.

The engineer, Harold Capus, 53, of Parma, and fireman, Robert Codrington, 47, of Sheffield Lake were banged up considerably. But they were in fair condition today in a Columbus hospital.

About 30 of the 113 passengers aboard were injured but none seriously.

Henkel, 41, a printing machinery installer on his way home from Syracuse, N. Y., jumped through a rear door and joined other travelers and rescuers in lifting out other passengers on the New York Central train.

The NYC provided buses for them to continue their journey. Damage to the train was estimated in six figures.

The day-after scene was a sightseers' picnic, but workers managed to push through the crowds and clear the tracks. Some of the wrecked cars, however, still lay along the tracks Sunday night.

"These people had God riding with them—that's all I can say," summed up veteran Howard Morsch.

O-I Plant Is Toured By Squires

Members of Columbian Squires 1662 enjoyed a tour Saturday at the local Owens-Illinois plant.

The visit centered on the many different types of machinery used at the Circleville facility. Especial interest focused on print and die equipment.

Conducting the tour was J. H. Whelan of the O-I staff. Refreshments and a discussion on the plant was conducted afterwards.

Young squires participating were Mike Vaughan, Bob Smith, Mark Frericks, Kevin Kellstadt, Eddie Anderson, Bill Gates and Charles Stevens. They were accompanied by Stanley Stevens Jr., assistant counselor.

Stevens announced the Squires will conduct a Christmas party with the Sigma Nu unit 7 p. m. Wednesday at the Knights of Columbus Council rooms, Franklin and Pickaway Sts.

Ralston Purina Employees Gather for Christmas Fete

A capacity gathering was on hand for the Ralston Purina plant's annual Christmas party Saturday night at the First EUB Church Service Center.

Taking part in the festive occasion were plant employees, their husbands and wives, company sales personnel, several retired employees and local guests. Marlin Cone of the local mill staff served as toastmaster.

A turkey dinner and all the trimmings was served by ladies of the EUB Church. Adding to the spirit of Christmas were the singing of carols, entertainment and a delightful visit by Santa Claus who presented gifts to all present.

Another highlight was the presentation of awards to employees with long years of service. Honored with 6-checker buttons for 30 years with the company were Circleville plant manager Larry Varble and Carl Dumm.

PRESENTED 5-checker buttons were Ellis Norman and John Downs. They have been with the company 25 years.

Receiving 3-checker buttons for 20 years service were Clarence Fausnaugh, Roy Farmer, Alva Weaver, Edgar McCain, Robert Conaway, Charles Hutchinson and Vonnice Keaton. McCain and Keaton were unable to be present.

John J. Williams, absent due to the death of his father, was recognized for 15 years on the job with a watch and 3-checker button. The other veteran employees received company stock.

The Rev. Eugene Flowers of the First EUB Church, Purina chaplain for the coming year, delivered Invocation and the annual Christmas message. The pastor described the greatness of Christ's birth, terming it as the true light from the Throne of Grace.

Retired Purina employees taking part in the festivities were Mason Klingensmith, Coit Doner and George Curry. Special recognition was extended to them by manager Varble.

Cited for safe driving and faithful efforts in the company's transportation department were Sam Steele, Ellis Norman, Chester Starkey and Fred Good. John Mackenzie, local plant superintendent, reported on progress and other activity at the Circleville installation for the past year.

The group carol sing was directed by Glen Justice, accompanied by Helen Wiley. The program ended with the singing of "Silent Night." A dance followed at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

THREE INJURED IN HANGAR FIRE—Three workmen were injured, one seriously, in a fire aboard a jet airliner undergoing maintenance in an Eastern Airlines hangar at Miami International Airport. Officials said the $6 million Trans Caribbean DC-8 was two-thirds destroyed.

Ralston Purina Employees Gather for Christmas Fete

A capacity gathering was on hand for the Ralston Purina plant's annual Christmas party Saturday night at the First EUB Church Service Center.

Taking part in the festive occasion were plant employees, their husbands and wives, company sales personnel, several retired employees and local guests. Marlin Cone of the local mill staff served as toastmaster.

A turkey dinner and all the trimmings was served by ladies of the EUB Church. Adding to the spirit of Christmas were the singing of carols, entertainment and a delightful visit by Santa Claus who presented gifts to all present.

Another highlight was the presentation of awards to employees with long years of service. Honored with 6-checker buttons for 30 years with the company were Circleville plant manager Larry Varble and Carl Dumm.

THREE INJURED IN HANGAR FIRE—Three workmen were injured, one seriously, in a fire aboard a jet airliner undergoing maintenance in an Eastern Airlines hangar at Miami International Airport. Officials said the $6 million Trans Caribbean DC-8 was two-thirds destroyed.

Schools Flunk

The American education system would flunk English if given a report card, in the view of the executive director of the National Council of Teachers of English. What's more, says James R. Squire, it is the teachers themselves who are at fault.

Such critical self-analysis may sound a little strange coming from within the teaching profession, but it is not new to the English teachers' association. In 1961, the association made a similar news by issuing a report criticizing the academic preparation of most English teachers and noting that only 50 per cent of them had majored in English in college.

The latest criticism by the council of its own members concerns the teaching of English to high school students who have only average or below-average ability. Most high schools now recognize gifted students with special incentives in the form of more challenging work, but what of the mediocre student or the one who falls below his class average?

According to the English council's chief, "Again and again we have found the same teacher performing brilliantly with her honor students, performing dully and dismally with the dullard an hour later."

Investigations of 168 high schools in 4 states led to the report, indicating it is a fairly uniform deficiency throughout American education. It is good those who know the problem best have taken the lead in seeking a solution.

Maritime Controversy

Many attacks have been made upon the Merchant Marine Task Force Report since it was made public in October. Labor leaders in particular are unhappy with the major recommendations, which involve scrapping the United States passenger fleet and buying new ships from foreign shipyards, which can produce vessels at half the U. S. cost.

Happy as merchant marine management would be at reducing the costs of the fleets, it is less than ecstatic about giving up the passenger business altogether, though this traffic continuously loses money even with heavy subsidies.

But at least one congressional critic has asked why it was necessary to appoint a task force in the first place.

In a speech to a shipbuilding conference, John M. Drewry, chief counsel for the House Merchant Marine Committee, commented that of all the maritime laws now on the books, only a few had been utilized in attempts to heal an admittedly sick industry.

Considering some of the other major mechanisms of government, which have been added or drastically altered in the last few years, the criticism of duplication has wide application in this administration. Was it really necessary, for example, to establish a new labyrinth of bureaucracy to fight poverty, or could it have been done with the existing machinery mixed with a little initiative and initiative?

This question should be asked more often, in maritime discussions as well as others.

Two Scorned Congressmen

By John Chamberlain

Whenever the U. S. State Department is criticized these days for its policy of "building bridges" to the Communist countries, the example of Indonesia is trotted out in its defense. For years we helped the Indonesians despite the revilements that we suffered from the poisonous Sukarno. Then, just as Sukarno was supposedly delivering his sprawling tropical archipelago into the hands of Red China, the Indonesian Army turned on the local Communists and ripped them to shreds. "See," said the State Department in effect, "we were patient in the face of insults, and the patience paid off."

It's hard to argue against a successful example. But the point that is overlooked when our policy toward Indonesia is used to justify "bridge building" to Rumania or Hungary is that Indonesia had never gone truly Communist or totalitarian. Despite the hold of Sukarno on his countrymen, there were always several separate power centers in Indonesia. The Communist Party was not the only political organization. And the Army kept some autonomy. We helped the Army by providing training for its officers, and our friendship paid off when the Communists struck against the Army for total power and were pulverized for their pains.

The East European countries, by contrast to Indonesia, do not have multiple power centers. You deal with the official Marxist governments, or else.

The U. S. Congressmen, Representatives Seymour Halpern, a Republican from New York, and Edward J. Patten, a Democrat from New Jersey, have just been handed the treatment in their efforts to walk across some newly erected State Department bridges to the European captive nations. Thinking to investigate the condition of Hungarians living in the Transylvania region of Rumania, the two Congressmen applied for visas. The Rumanians issued one for Patten, but turned Halpern down. Neither Congressman succeeded in getting a visa for Hungary. When they applied at the Austro-Hungarian border, they were repulsed a second time on the flimsy excuse of "too much traffic." Eventually Congressman Patten did get into Rumania by way of Yugoslavia, and he even managed to slip into Hungary through an oversight. But Seymour Halpern never did make it. He had made too many derogatory remarks about Rumania in the Congress.

What Patten saw in both Rumania and Hungary was raising to a fellow who had been inclined to go along with the bridge-building theories of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. A gasty trencherman who enjoys nothing so much as planting his legs firmly under a loaded table, Patten did well to get a couple of pallid frankfurters for a meal. He saw geese everywhere, but, as he put it, "I couldn't get a duck dinner." A million geese, he was told, were shipped every year to Russia. In the fields he saw piles of sugar beets wasting under wind and rain, and stacks of hay left to rot. The only people doing any work on the farms seemed to be old women. By contrast with the Hungarians and Rumanians, Patten says, the Negroes of America are swimming in affluence. "You can get an abortion quicker in Hungary than a hamburger," he said in final commentary on the food.

The fact that walking across a bridge into Rumania and Hungary is so difficult has shaken Patten a bit in his previous support of State Department policy. "Originally," he says, "I would have gone along with Rumania's request for help, to build a nuclear power plant and also to expand economic relations. Today I will fight any suggestions fiercely until there is some progress in regard to the human and civil rights of these people. I will also actively fight for hearings on these problems in the Foreign Affairs Committee and I have hope that such hearings will also be heard."

Congressman Halpern is even more emphatic. "The treatment I received," he says, "was abhorrent, repugnant and inexcusable. It bears out only too realistically everything we've been saying about the denial of human freedoms by the Communist states." His remedy? "I don't want to put strings on deals with the Communists," he says. "But the State Department should squawk like hell whenever there is an issue of human freedom. We should use assistance as a basis for protest on every occasion."

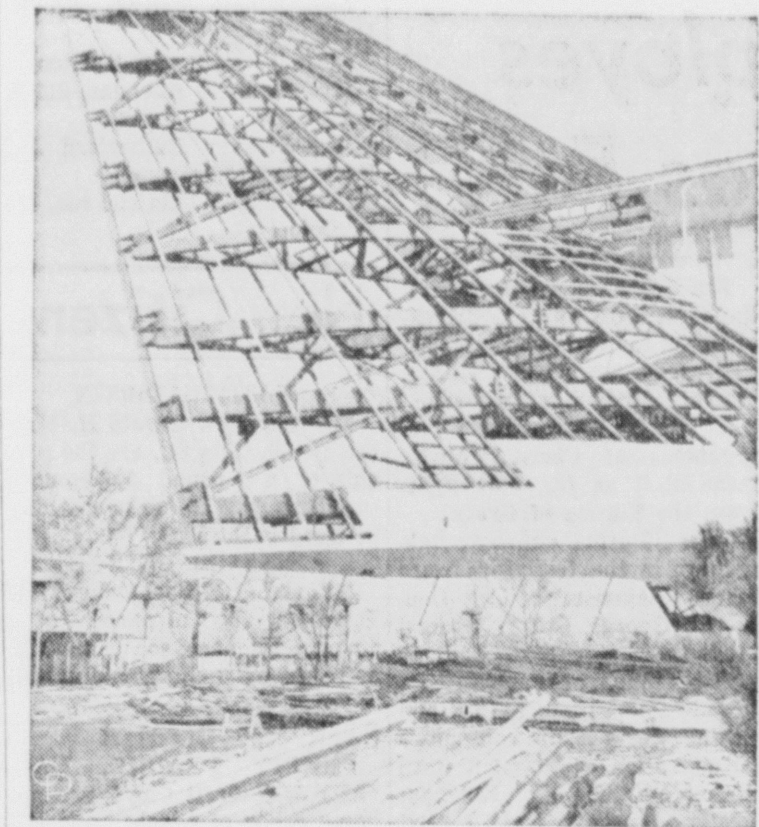

Strings or no strings, it is good to see a liberal Republican Congressman and a Democrat going over to the theory that the traffic over bridges should move both ways, and without discrimination in tolls.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Does the new measles vaccine have any value in the prevention of German measles?

Measles and German measles are totally different conditions and are completely unrelated. Even though both conditions are known to be caused by a virus and are associated with a rash of the skin they are dissimilar.

German measles is a far less severe condition than is ordinary measles. It is only of great importance if it occurs during the first three months of pregnancy. The success in finding the virus that causes regular measles seems to indicate that a vaccine for German measles will soon be forthcoming.

Measles can be a very serious disease, and can be followed by severe complications that may determine the health of a person during his entire life. No child should be deprived of his birthright, the complete vaccination and immunization against regular measles.

Vaccinate your children now before they are exposed to this disease from other children.

Is it safe to take water pills to lose weight?

Diuretics, or water pills, are used by physicians to encourage rapid elimination of excess fluid from the body.

Edema is an accumulation of fluid, due to a wide number of causes. Hormone imbalance, changes in metabolism, liver and kidney diseases, and even excess fluid intake make water retention.

Diuretics, or water pills, are very safe and very effective, but of course, cannot substitute for the real way to lose weight by reducing the intake of calories. If water retention is caused by any general physical condition, the basic reason must be found and treated.

Loss of weight by loss of water can, at best, be only temporary. A rigid diet is much more rewarding and leads to more permanent loss of weight.

What is meant by the side effects of drugs and how can they be avoided?

When patients are given any new drug they must be prepared for the possibility of some unusual reaction to them. Almost everyone at some time may react poorly to even the simplest medicine. A pain-killer, a laxative, a cough medicine may, on occasion, upset the stomach, cause nausea or skin rashes.

There are ways by which a physician can sometimes test a person for allergies or sensitivities to a new drug. Reactions to penicillin and vaccines can sometimes be prevented by first testing with a tiny amount.

When a person is given a new drug it is wise to ask what you can expect by taking it. If, after taking a single dose, there is any unusual reaction, one that is not expected, stop taking the drug until you confirm its use with the doctor.

When did you last have an X-ray of the chest? If it's longer than two years, do it soon. It's an excellent investment.

Right Book for Right Person

NEW YORK (AP) —Having trouble finding the right Christmas present for a friend?

Why not give him a book? Even if he already has a book, you can give him another.

Whether your friend reads the book is unimportant. Books have other than educational uses. They are great for curing insomnia, throwing at the cat and come in handy when you need to stand on something to reach a high shelf.

The next problem is what book to select. Naturally, that depends upon what kind of friend you are buying a present for. If he flunked out of Harvard, get him a book printed in large type and full of pictures. If he graduated from Yale get him one that has a portrait of a bosomy girl on the cover.

In general, however, the main thing is to be sure the book has a lot of pages and looks expensive. Be sure also that it has a hard cover.

As a tentative guide, here—all in fun—are a few books one might send to people well-known in the news.

"The Hour of Giving"—Jack Benny.

"Up the Down Staircase"—Leo Durocher.

"At Play in the Fields of the Lord"—Billy Graham.

"Yes I Can"—Richard M. Nixon.

"The Source"—Lyndon B. Johnson.

"The Man with the Golden Gun"—Robert S. McNamara.

"Mankind in the Promised Land"—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"Favor the Runner"—Adam Clayton Powell.

"A Soldier Speaks"—any trooper in Viet Nam.

"All Things Considered"—Harold E. Stassen.

"The Ambassador"—Bob Hope.

"The Light of the Past"—Barry Goldwater.

"Girl on the Run"—Lady Bird.

"Company's Coming!" — Ho Chi Minh.
"An Odor of Sanctity" — Charles de Gaulle.
"2,000 Insults for All Occasions" — comedian Jack E. Leonard.
"The Available Man" — Hubert H. Humphrey.
"O Strange New World" — Dean Rusk.
"Hope for Our Times" — buy this one for yourself.

France's tidal power station nearing completion at St. Malo, is expected to produce 544 million kilowatts of electricity annually. This should certainly add to that enterprising nation's liquid assets!

Other nations studying harnessing of ocean tides are the U. S., Canada, Russia, Britain and Australia. Looks like everybody wants to get into the swim.

A coincidence, comments the man at the next desk, is when the weather turns out to be exactly what the weatherman said it would be.

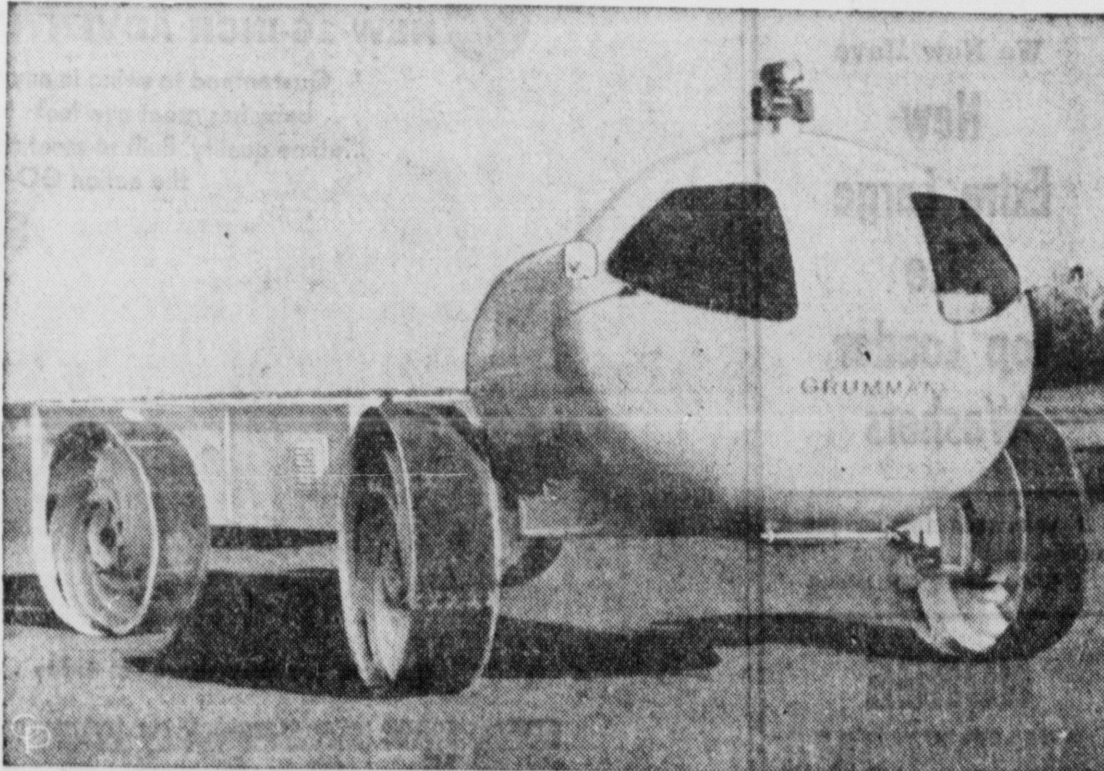

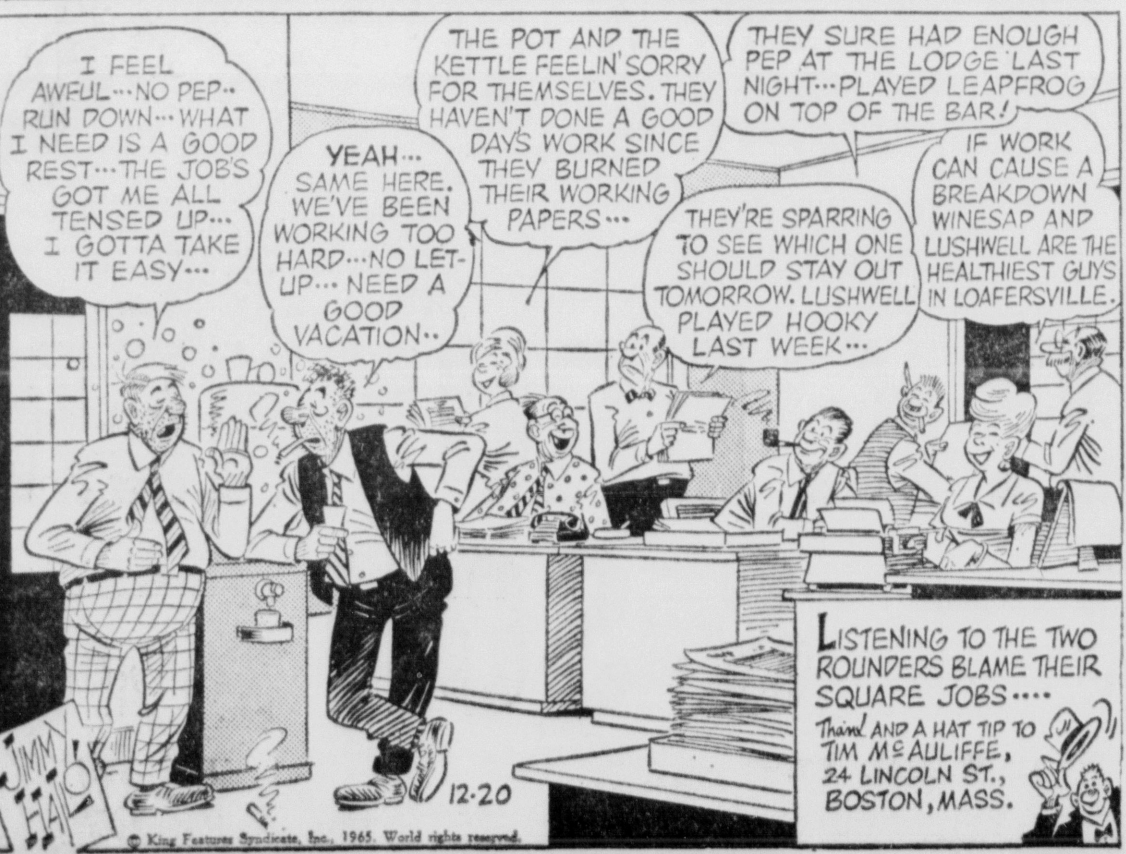

Meanwhile, we've just learned that Ceylon has the smallest number of overweight persons per capita of any nation. Gosh! —a fellow sure could go broke trying to live off the fat of THAT land!

After reading the letter his youngest grandson has written to Santa, asking for a drum and a bugle, Grandpappy Jenkins went out and bought himself a Christmas present—earplugs.

MOONMOBILE—It's the first working, full-scale vehicle for Moon travel, demonstrated by Grumman at Peconic, N.Y. Three years work and $750,000 are invested in it. The vehicle is 31 feet long, and has pinwheel-like wheels that will flatten to oblong, to avoid bumping. Even a slight bump on the Moon could bounce a vehicle 20 feet into the air.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMERS—Movie and TV star Jackie Cooper visits with Timothy Fass of Whittier, Calif., in Cooper's capacity as state chairman for the January, 1966 March of Dimes Campaign. Ohio Girl Tells How She Found Success in Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To all those girls out there who dream of becoming a movie star, Elizabeth Hartman has a message: you can do it.

Elizabeth did it. Without even getting out of breath. So new to the professional world is she that she still considers Youngstown, Ohio, her home.

There are several things you should know about Elizabeth Hartman.

She is pretty, though it is sometimes hard to detect the fact because of the way she pulls her hair back in severe style and wears no makeup.

"Yes, I've had people suggest I should look more glamorous. But I can't be what I'm not."

She is talented, as evidenced by her work in "A Patch of Blue" with Sidney Poitier. The story of a blind girl who is befriended by a Negro was premiered here to general huzzahs. Elizabeth was hailed as a brilliant new star.

She is strong-minded. ("I know what I want, and I aim to get it").

Elizabeth Hartman knew what she wanted at the age of 13 in Youngstown. She started working at the local playhouse and continued through high school. After studying drama for a year at Carnegie Tech, she decided to tackle New York.

"From January to May I scarcely went out of my hotel except for my classes at the Actor's Workshop," she recalled. "I was terrified. I kept writing brave letters home, but my parents could read between the lines. They said I could come home any time I wanted. But I kept on spending their money. I must say they were wonderful."

Elizabeth, who is 24 and still returns to Youngstown when not working, has this advice to those girls who would like to repeat her success:

"Stay where you are and work in the local theater; don't try for Broadway or Hollywood until you are ready; want to act very earnestly; keep your dreams."

Havana Yule Songs Call for Hard Work

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Christmas songs on Havana radio exhort listeners to work harder while they enjoy the holidays.

Complete with a Latin beat and the tinkle of bells, the lyrics to one go: "Greetings to the cane-cutter with our best wishes for a record sugar harvest."

Another says: "Greetings in the New Year which will be happier and more prosperous because of your work."

MRS. ROBERT TORRENCE BALES

Wedding Vows Repeated By Miss Kelly, Mr. Bales

Miss Edith Farrar Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Montgomery Kelly Jr., Englewood, N. J., and Mr. Robert Torrence Bales, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Foster Bales II, Princeton, N. J., were united in marriage 5:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church, Englewood.

The Rev. Harry Chase performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de faulle with sleeves and bodice of Alencon lace and fashioned with a chapel train. She carried white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Nina de Saussure was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Duncan Bruce Whitman, sister of the bride, Miss Minnie Kelly, cousin of the bride, and Miss Philippa Robinson. The attendants wore gowns of red velvet.

Mr. Bales served as best man for his son. Ushers were Mr. John Foster Bales III and Mr. Richard Findley Bales, brothers of the bridegroom. Mr. James Montgomery Kelly III, brother of the bride, Mr. Thomas Bruce Benjamin and Mr. Douglas H. Stevens.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Women's Club of Englewood.

After a trip to Antiqua the couple will make their home in Ithaca, N. Y.

The new Mrs. Bales graduated from Dwight Schools for Girls, Englewood, and attended Denison University.

Mr. Bales graduated from Taft School and Kenyon College and is presently attending the Statler School of Hotel Administration, Cornell University.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Robert Rea Bales, 207 E. Main St., and the late Mr. Bales, and Mrs. Findley M. Torrence of Xenia, and the late Mr. Torrence.

Mrs. Robert R. Bales left for New Jersey last week to attend the wedding.

HOLIDAY DECORATIONS — Children can make many things for Christmas by using plastic containers. Shown here is a used light bulb being inserted into the neck of an empty plastic container to form the foundation for a Christmas figure. The container and bulb are covered with foil, then dressed to create various figures.

New Christmas Projects Suggested for Children

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
Now's the time to start saving empty plastic soap, detergent, water softener and shampoo containers. They can be used to make some marvelous Christmas decorations, says designer Conny, a pint-sized pixie who is well-known to TV audiences. They've watched fascinated while she has sculptured figures from foil.

For Christmas, Conny suggests you let the children make Nativity figures, angels, Santa Claus, snowmen — whatever they like — using plastic containers. The containers make the figures. Used light bulbs, plastic foam balls or rubber balls are used for heads. A bulb works best because its neck fits nicely into the container's neck.

A large sheet of super-strength aluminum foil is used to cover head and container and unite them to create the figure.

Ribbon, wool or yarn is attached with glue for hair, as is felt, which is used for eyelashes, eyes and mouth.

Scraps of fabric, scarves, colorfully appropriate handkerchiefs or even patterned wrapping paper make costumes for the figures.

For angels, cut halos out of cardboard, cover with super-strength aluminum foil and attach with a foil-covered pipe cleaner.

Foil-covered cardboard wings can also be attached with pipe cleaners.

Pleated or crushed foil can be used for arms.

Actually these figures are simple, since the plastic container and bulb shape them for you. The fun comes in dressing them up for their Christmas roles.

If you're short of tiny gift boxes or would like to deck your tree with souvenirs visitors can take home with them, here's another suggestion from Conny.

Buy a star-shaped candleholder in the dime store. Invert it and press a double sheet of super-strength aluminum foil over it. Press excess foil flat against the table surface, then remove the mold.

Place a small gift inside the foil star. Cover the open top of the star with a double sheet of foil.

Holding the cover and the star together, cut along the star points with scissors. This will "weld" the foil together so that there's no need to use glue.

Hang the stars up with ornament hooks or ribbons.

If you're looking for other how-to holiday ideas that will intrigue children, a special magazine, "Christmas Things Children Can Make", that's available at news-stands, supermarkets and dime stores, has some delightful suggestions.

It includes, for example ideas for making wreaths, ornaments, Christmas cards and even gifts.

One cute gift idea is for a doll house — each room is made with an empty shoe box — furnished with tables and lamps made of spoons and chairs, beds and sofas made with boxes.

For children and grownups, Susan Purdy's book, "Christmas Decorations For You To Make", is another source of ideas.

Her old-fashioned notion of decorating the tree with chains of popcorn, cranberries, macaroni tinted with vegetable coloring or paper-wrapped candies is fun.

Red and green felt doorknob covers decorated with bells that jingle when the door is opened to admit holiday guests are cute, too and easy to make.

Mrs. Purdy also offers how-to tips on making Christmas mobiles, stockings and tree decorations.

The book can be ordered through your local bookshop.

How Weather Looks Today

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly cloudy with light snow tonight.

Snow accumulation of 1 to 3 inches likely. Low tonight 24. Tuesday cloudy with occasional snow flurries, high 34.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Light snow changing to snow flurries tonight and ending Tuesday. Snow accumulation of 1 to 3 inches likely. Not much change in temperature except not so cold tonight, low 22-29.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Snow-changing to snow flurries and not as cold tonight, low 25-28. Mostly cloudy and not much change in temperatures Tuesday.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Light snow and cold tonight with snow accumulations of 1 or 2 inches likely, low 24-26. Tuesday cloudy and continued cold with a few snow flurries.

OHIO FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average 4 to 7 degrees above normal. Representative daily normal highs and lows are Cincinnati 42-27, Columbus 38-22, Cleveland 35-21. Warmer Tuesday and Wednesday then colder latter part of week. Precipitation expected to average one-quarter inch liquid as intervals of snow north and rain or snow south occurring near midweek and again toward the end.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

It's Possible, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: Why do most men prefer to buy their own clothes, no matter how poor their taste is, rather than let their wives go shopping with them? I know very few men whose wives couldn't dress them better than they dress themselves. Most men know nothing about style. They come out of the store with something just like what they went in with. You have to look close to see if they are wearing their new blue suit or their old one. You should write a whole column on how the well-dressed man should dress.

SICK OF SLOBS
DEAR SICK: I don't have to write a column on how men should dress. Any man who wants to be well-dressed needs only to walk into a first-class men's clothing store and ask one of the salesmen for guidance. Men who sell men's clothing are among the best-dressed men in the country. They make an honest effort to sell the customer what is right for him. And only if they fail, will they let him buy what he wants, regardless.

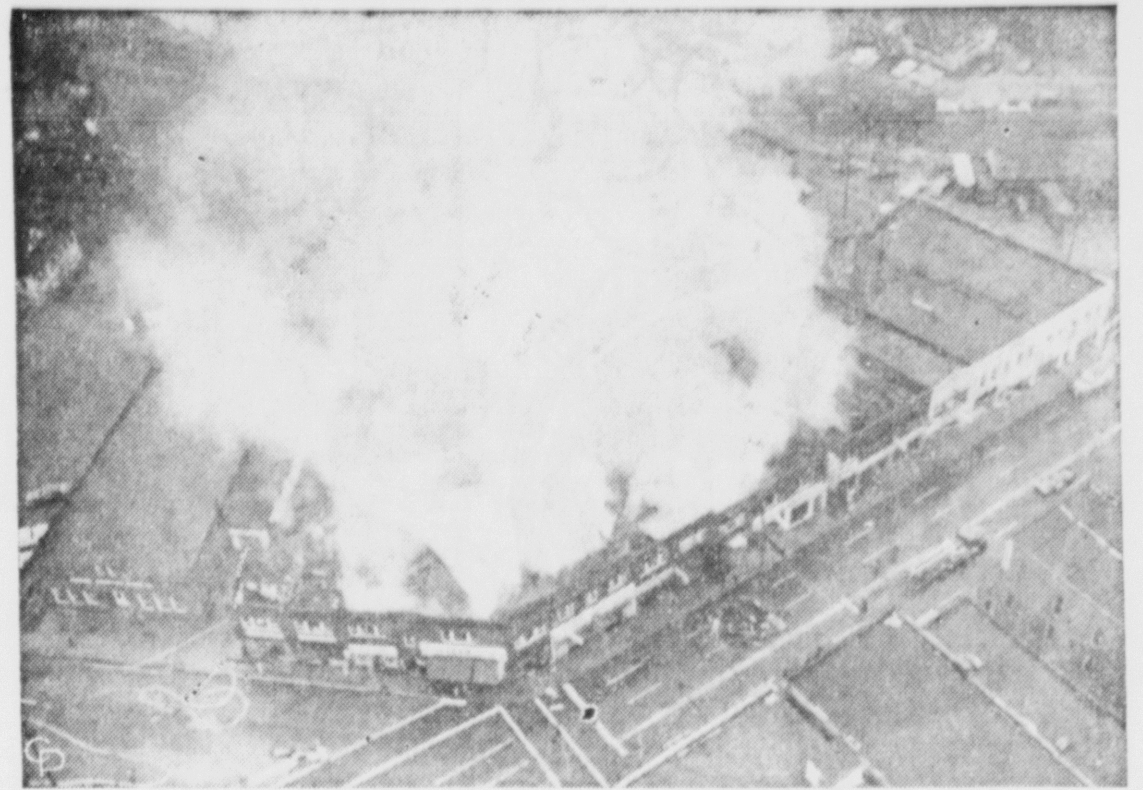

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as it is very important to me. There is this real cute boy at school and I like him very much, but he doesn't like me. He likes another girl. She is real popular and I am not. This girl has a big mouth, terrible personality and she's a big showoff, but she's good-looking and that's why she's popular. This isn't just my opinion. Lots of kids agree with me. I am not cute, but I am not ugly, either. This boy is going to ask this girl to go steady. I told him he is making a big mistake and he said that was for HIM to decide. What can I do to get him?

LIKES HIM
DEAR LIKES: Nothing. No boy likes to be told whom to like, and any coaching from the sidelines will only make him more determined to make up his own mind. It's not possible to throw mud without getting some on yourself, so my advice to you is to concentrate on making yourself more "likable" and quit attempting to cut other girls down.

DEAR ABBY: I have a girl who is seven years old and, Abby, she is about the slowest eater I have ever seen. It took her 45 minutes this morning to eat a bowl of cereal. She has always been a slow eater, and nothing can make her eat faster. I don't know if we should try to get her to eat faster or not. Can you advise me?

MRS. C.
DEAR MRS. C.: Forty-five minutes is far too long to sit over a bowl of cereal. She's not "eating" — she's dawdling. These are the years children form their habits, so give her a certain amount of time (like 15 minutes) in which to eat her cereal, and then remove the bowl. Full or empty. She has trained YOU to accept her fiddling around. Change her tune, and train HER to get on with the business of eating at mealtime.

Australian Dogs Are a Brave Lot

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central
Press and This Newspaper

The Australian seaside town of Woy Woy is about 50 miles north of Sydney, and in Woy Woy is one of the proudest dog-owners you'll find anywhere. And Bill Grant has every reason to be proud: his Australian blue cattle dog, Snip, has been recommended for the highest bravery award of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The society's recommendation refers to Snip as "a canine hero."

Grant was awakened late one night by furious barking by Snip—not afraid of fire.

Snip. Grant found that his house was on fire, and he rushed to the door only to be driven back by flames. He fought his way to the back of the house, climbed through a window and ran for help. Snip still barking in the front garden did not see his master leave the house.

Firemen came quickly, just in time to grab Snip, who was rushing into the flames, apparently believing his master to still be inside the house. Four times firemen held him back, but each time he broke away again and rushed for the house, frantic in his determination to save his master.

Only when Grant returned himself, safe and sound, would Snip be convinced that there was no need for him to search the burning building.

Such acts of courage and bravery are not uncommon among Australian blue cattle dogs. Registered as a pure breed for the past 75 years, the animal was developed from several breeds, including the dingo, the wild dog of Australia. Its face and ears are black reddish with a tan spot over each brown eye and a white stripe down the middle of the forehead.

Its tail is rather bushy, growing from a dark blue body which is evenly speckled with lighter blue. The strain was especially developed to handle cattle under the unusual farm conditions of the Down-Under continent.

Hardy, fast, courageous and very intelligent, the Australian blue is absolutely devoted to one master. When working with cattle they do not bark, but can handle a herd through speed and ability to give the heels of stragglers a sharp nip without tearing the flesh. That's why

Small Factory Condenses Food

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A small factory has begun production of super-concentrated food - stuffs for the growing world market.

The initial production line is set up for a daily output of 500 kilos of coffee, to be exported to the United States, Belgium, Italy and England for $3.80 per kilo.

The factory can also condense shrimp, bananas, potatoes and other vegetables to one-fourth of their original weight.

Suspected a Still?

STERLING, Kan. (AP) — There were some quick questions when city officials were asked to approve a city purchase of 100 pounds of dry ice and two gallons of alcohol.

A maintenance supervisor explained it would be used to freeze water mains briefly to keep water from escaping while some new fire hydrants are installed.

Liquor Store Here On Holiday Schedule

The State Liquor Store, 108 E. Franklin St., is now operating on a special holiday business hour schedule.

The store will be open through Dec. 23, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.; on Dec. 24, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.; Dec. 27, 29, regular hours; Dec. 30, 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.; and Dec. 31, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Two Akron Area Schools Hit by Vandals

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Vandals broke into two schools in the Akron area over the weekend and did considerable damage at both places, police and sheriff's deputies reported.

Police said vandals at Inness Junior High School here ransacked the offices and clinic, smashed fixtures, upset furniture, broke typewriter and adding machines, tore holes in walls and ceilings and wrote obscenities on the walls.

After surveying damage done by vandals at Erwine Junior High Schools in Portage Lakes, sheriff's deputies said the school was a "mess."

Deputies said the vandals went through every room up- setting furniture and doing other damage. They said fire-hoses were turned and left running until water ran out the doors.

West Pakistan has harsh deserts and mountains. East Pakistan, nearly a 1,000 miles away, is a flat, waterlogged world of bayous, swamps and rice fields.

Brazil in Need of Fishing Boats

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Some of the world's richest fishing banks lie off Brazil's southern coast, according to a study made under United Nations guidance recently.

But Brazilians may have to depend on Argentine and Uruguayan fishing boats to reap the fishy harvest. Brazil's fishing industry is suffering from a shortage of boats. The government is considering opening Brazil's territorial waters to neighboring countries boats in return for a portion of their catch.

Wildlife Refuges Preserve Nature

Cute as can be are this female otter and her pup. Let's make sure they'll always be around.

Ugly as sin and as mean to boot is this Florida alligator. But he, too, deserves preservation.

By RAYMOND A. LAJOIE
Written Especially for Central
Press and This Newspaper

Listen for a moment to George Laycock, famed wildlife authority. He says:

"There is no animal or bird on earth big enough, ferocious enough or elusive enough to escape the relentless pressures from the spreading human race. Why?"

"Man fashions his own living setup; he drains and levels the land. He surrounds himself with cement, steel and cultivated fields. He sprays and uses chemical poisons that drift in the air and float in the streams and lakes."

Since his boyhood on an Ohio farm, Laycock has been interested in animals and birds, taking a degree in wildlife management from Ohio State University. He has traveled, and camped far and wide, has visited almost all the National Wildlife Refuges.

Today, a naturalist well known for his books on outdoor themes, Laycock published a book, "The Sign of the Flying Goose," with a forward by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L.
Udall which will do much to help this splendid cause.

With it, Laycock tells about the growing concern early in this century over the fate of our wildlife which led to the establishment of our first national wildlife refuge. It was a tremendous action, yet at the time received little publicity.
This, however, was the beginning of what would eventually grow into more than 280 national wildlife refuges, each marked with a sign of a flying goose, probably the greatest effort any country ever made (outside Sweden) in wildlife conservation.

Thanks to the men of vision who preceded us, nearly every kind of wild animal known to the fifty states can be found in them.

Some were set aside for hard-pressed waterfowl. Others protect moose, antelope, trumpeter swans, whooping cranes, sea otters, colonial nesting birds, our smallest deer and a host of other creatures. A good many of these would almost certainly be extinct today were it not for the refuges.

About 12 million people visit the refuges each year. Some come to study and photograph.
Others come to fish, camp, hunt, picnic or explore with their families and friends. A refuge may be along a major highway, beside a country lane, deep in a mountain wilderness, or at the edge of the ocean.

Laycock also expands on several refuges chosen for the variety of wildlife. He recounts the monumental efforts to establish this nation's wildlife refuges, beginning in 1903 with Pelican Island off the coast of Florida, and tells of the human mistakes, the inspiration, the natural difficulties (in many cases the political opposition) that have plagued the existence of particular species.

In addition, one finds information on 162 refuges where the public is welcome, numerous illustrations, maps.

What of the future? Will man, about to double and triple his numbers on earth, allow wildlife to survive? Many are now in danger of complete obliteration — 112 cold-blooded species, 24 birds and 15 mammals.

In the wildlife refuges we have cause for great national pride. Here we would not let the key deer or trumpeter swan disappear, or final disaster wipe out the desert bighorn. We have provided for the majestic elk, whooping crane, buffalo, and ducks and geese in great and colorful variety.

We have proved that, in a

Cong Tightening Noose Of Terror Around Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam
(AP) — Viet Cong ranging from youthful saboteurs in Saigon to battle-hardened battalions in the countryside are tightening a noose of terror around Saigon.

The threat at present is mostly psychological. But a massive terror campaign may be near for the capital, which has escaped much of the brutality of the war despite repeated terrorist acts.

No Viet Cong military attempt to seize the city is expected.

Government troops have been able to do little to clear the surrounding countryside. Some vital military installations and tactical areas are considered threatened. One such military area is almost within rifle shot of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division headquarters just north of Saigon.

Adding to the problem, rum-blings of military discontent with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government have touched off a flurry of coup rumors. At such times anti-Communist operations often are disregarded in favor of political jockeying.

Rivalries between various intelligence agencies complicate the picture. Police sources say informers often fear being exposed by Viet Cong agents who have infiltrated into the government's version of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

High officials in Washington and Saigon have focused sharply on the recent campaign of terror in Saigon which began with the bombing Dec. 4 of the Metropole Hotel, a U.S. and Allied billet.

A series of incidents since led to a dusk-to-dawn curfew for U.S. servicemen in Saigon.

Concern is high now because the current terror campaign obviously is geared to the fifth anniversary today of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

Inside the city are four known Viet Cong Commando units, the 65th, 67th, 158th and 159th. They probably total less than 300 persons.

The Commandos are not organized as military units. The members are parts of Communist cells and subcells and most are unknown to each other.
Over-all plans are known only by a top handful. If one cell or group is compromised, the sabotage network does not collapse.

Fanning out of Saigon into Gia Dinh Province, also part of the capital military district, are perhaps five Viet Cong district organizations, some with military companies attached. These district organizations have a measure of autonomy and include many of the most dedicated Communists.

Recent intelligence reports indicate that two Viet Cong battalions also have moved into the area just south of Saigon.

It seems unlikely that the Vie Cong would try to take physica possession of the city since they do not have the military organization to back up such a move.
Their hit-and-run tactics are expected to remain unchanged.

Sinking Solons

MANCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) —
City officials have that sinking feeling.

Mayor C. V. Myers says the City Hall is unsafe for human use. Unless a new one can be built, he says, he will declare it hazardous and won't let people enter.

Myers says the roof sags about 10 inches. The building once was used for a livery sta-

Wildlife Refuges Preserve Nature

Cute as can be are this female otter and her pup. Let's make sure they'll always be around.

Ugly as sin and as mean to boot is this Florida alligator. But he, too, deserves preservation.

By RAYMOND A. LAJOIE
Written Especially for Central
Press and This Newspaper

Listen for a moment to George Laycock, famed wildlife author. He says:

"There is no animal or bird on earth big enough, ferocious enough or elusive enough to escape the relentless pressures from the spreading human race. Why?

"Man fashions his own living setup; he drains and levels the land. He surrounds himself with cement, steel and cultivated fields. He sprays and uses chemical poisons that drift in the air and float in the streams and lakes."

Since his boyhood on an Ohio farm, Laycock has been interested in animals and birds, taking a degree in wildlife management from Ohio State University. He has traveled and camped far and wide, has visited almost all the National Wildlife Refuges.

Today, a naturalist well known for his books on outdoor themes, Laycock published a book, "The Sign of the Flying Goose," with a forward by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall which will do much to help this splendid cause.

With it, Laycock tells about the growing concern early in this century over the fate of our wildlife which led to the establishment of our first national wildlife refuge. It was a tremendous action, yet at the time received little publicity. This, however, was the beginning of what would eventually grow into more than 280 national wildlife refuges, each marked with a sign of a flying goose, probably the greatest effort any country ever made (outside Sweden) in wildlife conservation.

Thanks to the men of vision who preceded us, nearly every kind of wild animal known to the fifty states can be found in them.

Some were set aside for hard-pressed waterfowl. Others protect moose, antelope, trumpeter swans, whooping cranes, sea otters, colonial nesting birds, our smallest deer and a host of other creatures. A good many of these would almost certainly be extinct today were it not for the refuges.

About 12 million people visit the refuges each year. Some come to study and photograph. Others come to fish, camp, hunt, picnic or explore with their families and friends. A refuge may be along a major highway, beside a country lane, deep in a mountain wilderness, or at the edge of the ocean.

Laycock also expands on several refuges chosen for the variety of wildlife. He recounts the monumental efforts to establish this nation's wildlife refuges, beginning in 1903 with Pelican Island off the coast of Florida, and tells of the human mistakes, the inspiration, the natural difficulties (in many cases the political opposition) that have plagued the existence of particular species.

In addition, one finds information on 162 refuges where the public is welcome, numerous illustrations, maps.

What of the future? Will man, about to double and triple his numbers on earth, allow wildlife to survive? Many are now in danger of complete obliteration — 112 cold-blooded species, 24 birds and 15 mammals.

In the wildlife refuges we have cause for great national pride. Here we would not let the key deer or trumpeter swan disappear, or final disaster wipe out the desert bighorn. We have provided for the majestic elk, whooping crane, buffalo, and ducks and geese in great and colorful variety.

We have proved that, in a

Cong Tightening Noose Of Terror Around Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong ranging from youthful saboteurs in Saigon to battle-hardened battalions in the countryside are tightening a noose of terror around Saigon.

The threat at present is mostly psychological. But a massive terror campaign may be near for the capital, which has escaped much of the brutality of the war despite repeated terrorist acts.

No Viet Cong military attempt to seize the city is expected.

Government troops have been able to do little to clear the surrounding countryside. Some vital military installations and tactical areas are considered threatened. One such military area is almost within rifle shot of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division headquarters just north of Saigon.

Adding to the problem, rumblings of military discontent with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government have touched off a flurry of coup rumors. At such times anti-Communist operations often are disregarded in favor of political jockeying.

Rivalries between various intelligence agencies complicate the picture. Police sources say informers often fear being exposed by Viet Cong agents who have infiltrated into the government's version of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

High officials in Washington and Saigon have focused sharply on the recent campaign of land of crop surpluses, great mines, fabulous factories, magnificent transportation systems and impressive centers of culture and government, there is still room for our rich and beautiful wildlife.

George Laycock adds: "Much of our wildlife will disappear unless we take an interest in it and do something about it. For example, how many realize that the black-footed ferret faces complete obliteration — as do the prairie dogs on which he feeds?"

"So will also be the fate of Ross's goose, Bachman's warbler, Attwater's prairie chicken. The latter is now restricted to three Texas counties and the lesser in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas."

Secretary Udall has said, "We must continually dedicate ourselves to the inspiring proposition that Americans should respect and protect all living creatures — and accord them a place in our scheme of values. "All Americans should take advantage of the sheer enjoyment and educational value of our wildlife refuges, this great natural resource — with its splendid insight into the inner secrets of wildlife ecology, a rich legacy we all share."

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—An Akron youth has told police that he was knocked down, robbed and abandoned by his accomplice in breaking into the Willoughby-Eastlake South High School, where he was found badly cut.

Robert Kyle, 18, called police from the school early Sunday. When officers arrived they found him lying on the floor near the telephone and bleeding. Police said he had suffered cuts of the right foot and left cheek when he broke a window to enter the building. He was reported in satisfactory condition at Lake County Memorial Hospital Test here.

Kyle was charged with forcible entry of an uninhabited dwelling and a warrant was issued for the arrest of his companion, an 18-year-old Painesville youth, police said. Both youths were absent without official leave from the Navy, officers added.

Police said the youths broke several windows and doors and rifled desks at the school, but it was not determined if anything was taken pending an inventory by school officials today.

Peace Feeler Report Causes Viet Hassle

The La Pira-Fanfani account said the Vietnamese were prepared for peace negotiations on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreements creating Viet Nam provided the United States would accept the Communists' four-point program, which Hanoi called its definition of the Geneva treaty, as a basis for the talks.

disclosure said flatly that "the United States must recognize these four points and show this with practical deeds so as to find a political solution to the Viet Nam problem."
That is in line with North Viet Nam's standard public position but it is harder as a statement of policy than the La Pira version reported by Fanfani and released in the Fanfani letter to Johnson.
Diplomatic authorities said privately they thought the Hanoi government might have considered it necessary to issue Saturday's denial to preserve its position with Communist China, which is regarded here as vehemently opposed to peace in Viet Nam. But officials said it was equally possible and perhaps more logical that North Viet Nam's leaders simply aren't ready to negotiate yet on any terms other than their own.

The principal Communist term which the Johnson administration has been totally unwilling ing to accept is Point Three, which requires that the Communists have a decisive role in the future of South Viet Nam. Johnson and Rusk have taken the position that on this issue there can be no compromise.

Fanfani's letter to Johnson was answered by Rusk Dec. 4 and Fanfani sent the essence of the reply along to North Viet Nam. Rusk asked for clarification on several points of La Pira's version of Ho's statement.

Diplomatically, therefore, the next move would appear to be up to Hanoi. "No answer has reached me as of today," Fanfani said Friday.
When the sequence of events became public, U.S. officials went to great efforts to emphasize that the apparent peace feeler had not been rejected as reported by the Post-Dispatch. But the next day, the Post-Dispatch quoted "well-placed diplomats" at the United Nations as saying U.S. bombing last Wednesday of an electrical power plant in the vicinity of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong constituted a clear answer to the peace offer.

In a story by U.N. correspondent Donald Grant, the paper said Johnson had been informed in advance of the air strike that any such action would "close the door to negotiations." Goldberg, however, said Sunday that this is "completely untrue."
There were these other week-end developments:

ing trip dealing mainly with Viet Nam. Mansfield and four colleagues who accompanied him said upon their arrival in Washington Saturday night that "the longer a solution is delayed, the more extended the destructiveness of the conflict will become and the more difficult the restoration of a rational and durable peace."
—Pope Paul VI, speaking to 20,000 persons in St. Peter's Square, appealed to "responsible leaders" to heed at the least a Viet Cong proposal for a 12-hour Christmas Eve cease-fire in Viet Nam. "We hope that from the cease-fire there would follow reflections and negotiations, then finally the equilibrium of concord and peace..."
—Goldberg, commenting on the Pope's appeal, said that the United States seeks peace "not only for Christmas but for all time." As for the Viet Cong proposal, Goldberg said "our local commanders have been authorized to work that out provided it can be done without themselves being fired on."

—President Johnson received a report Sunday from Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield on a 30,000-mile fact-finding trip dealing mainly with Viet Nam. Mansfield and four colleagues who accompanied him said upon their arrival in Washington Saturday night that "the longer a solution is delayed, the more extended the destructiveness of the conflict will become and the more difficult the restoration of a rational and durable peace."

Gemini 6, 7 Chalk Up 11 Space Marks

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Gemini 7, with a strong assist from Gemini 6, established 11 world records for manned space flight.

Here are the new marks resulting from the twin Gemini missions:

1. Longest manned spaceflight — 330 hours, 35 minutes, by Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James Lovell of Gemini 7, exceeding the record of 190 hours, 55 minutes by Gemini 5 astronaut; L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad, Aug. 21-29.
2. First rendezvous of two manned maneuverable spacecraft, as Gemini 7 and Gemini 6 flew 20 hours, 22 minutes, within 6 miles of each other, including a minimum distance of 6 to 10 feet. Russia twice had two spacecraft within four miles of each other but the ships apparently were not maneuverable and are not believed to have flown in formation.
3. Total man hours in space for one nation—1,352 hours, 42 minutes by the United States compared to 507 hours, 16 minutes for Russia.
4. Individuals with most space flight time—Borman and Lovell with 330 hours, 35 minutes, exceeding the 225 hours, 15 minutes, held by Cooper for his Mercury 9 and Gemini 5 flights.
5. Longest multimanned spaceflight—Gemini 7, surpassing the 190 hours, 56 minutes by Gemini 5.
6. Most orbits for a manned space flight—206 by Gemini 7, exceeding 120 by Gemini 5.
7. Most miles traveled on a manned space flight — 5,129,400 by Gemini 7, surpassing the 3,338,200 by Gemini 5.
8. Most manned flights—United States 11, Russia 8.
9. Most men sent into space—16 by the United States (13 astronauts, with three of them making two flights, Russia 11).
10. Most manned flights in one year by one nation—5 by the United States, exceeding old record of 3 Mercury flights by U.S. in 1962.
11. Most men sent into space in one year by one nation—10 by United States in 1965, exceeding 3 by U.S. in 1962 and 3 by Russia in 1964.

In Mail to GIs in Viet: Jar of Pickled Pigs Feet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — In the mass of mail pouring in from the states to the U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam was this three-gallon glass jar of pickled pigs feet.

To the two men who shoulder the daily responsibility of getting the mail through to the soldiers, this ordinarily would be no problem.

But let one of them, M. Sgt. James V. Adams of Penfield, Ill., tell what happened.

"The glass jar broke and there was a real mess. It took us some time to pick out the broken glass and sort out the coddled letters from the big metal container we use for the mail."

The other man responsible for the mail getting through is Capt. Gerald C. Aker of Bellevue, Wash., a former Air Force navigator and onetime teacher.

The Aker-Adams team directs the handling of about 270,000 pounds of mail daily at the aerial mail terminal at Saigon's airport. About 30,000 pounds make up the letters and packages being sent back home.

The other 12 tons is mail addressed to U.S. troops on duty in South Viet Nam.

Three months ago the daily volume of service mail handled here was about 50,000 pounds, says Adams, the noncommissioned officer in charge of the aerial mail terminal.

Aker, 32, is a veteran who served in the Pacific as a navigator for the Military Air Transport Service. He took time out for schooling and teaching, but the Cuban crisis in October, 1962, called him back into service.

He now plans to make the service his career. The leopard tattooed on his right arm tells of a hitch in the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Problems? To keep the soldiers' mail moving so there will be no undue delay.

"We never allow the mail to pile up here," Aker says. "Now with the Christmas rush on, we have to make an extra effort to get the mail on its way."

"Every now and then a military situation will have priority over all military aircraft, but the minute planes are available, we start the mails moving. Our aim is to let no letter or parcel remain on our hands for more than 24 hours."

In almost all normal cases, Aker says, the mail moves out the day it comes in.

"I turn them over to Sgt. Adams," Aker says. "That man is tops in getting the soldier mail moved."

"Too many men over here are sending fresh fruit and vegetables home by mail," Adams said. "They get crushed and they spoil. They are rough on packages — most of it just can't get through."

Few letters and parcels are not delivered — less than about one-half of one per cent, Adams estimates. Insufficient address is the main reason; troop movements are the next.

Working under Aker and Adams is a staff of 17 U.S. military personnel and 25 Vietnamese.

Trio Held In Slaying Of Druggist

MONROE, Mich. (AP)—Sheriff's officers here jailed two men and a woman early today an hour after the fatal shooting of a druggist in Toledo, Ohio.

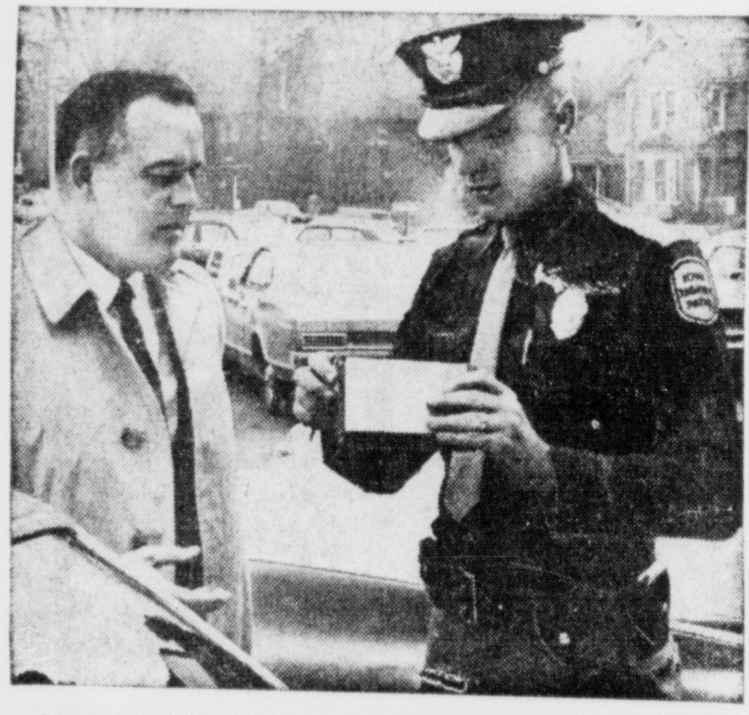

Witnesses told police two men held up John R. Taylor, 66, for the contents of his cash register. Taylor was shot in the shoulder and the bullet entered his lung, according to a coroner's report.

A witness, Mrs. Hazel Reiter, 48, of Toledo, was shot in the arm as she attempted to aid Taylor outside the store.

Monroe County sheriff's officers said they stopped a car containing the three persons on .75 north of the Michigan-Ohio state line. They said no shots were exchanged.

Toledo police questioned the woman, identified as Rosey Redd, 36, of Detroit, and said the two men would be questioned later today.

The men gave their identities as Samuel A. Ishman, 40, with no address, and Alton William McCullough, 36, of Detroit.

COURT TEST FOR STUDDERED TIRES—Planning a test case in court, Iowa State Sen. Warren Kruck, D-Boone, accepts a ticket for having metal studded snow tires on his car in Des Moines. Highway Patrolman John Abetone of Ankeny is presenting the ticket.

The Burtons Appear Older In "Virginia Wolff" Film

By ARMAND ARCHER
Central Press Association Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton — color them older. The big surprise (?) — Liz and Dick as a mature-looking couple — is being awaited, their studio hopes anxiously, by moviegoers who will see them next year in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolff?"

While photographs of the Burtons in makeup for the film are not being released as yet — we can help you get an idea of the transformation if you will alter these recent films of the Burtons on the set in rehearsals — before the makeup men got to them.

Since the change is less drastic with Richard B., let's color him first: now 40, Burton should be aged to about 50. He plays a college professor, so he gets an appropriate "college professor" look.

First step is to give him a pair of glasses. Next, add a set of wrinkles about the eyes and mouth. Following, the hair is grayed at the temples and pulled back a little tighter.

Dick's wardrobe is not the Chic Vine Street threads to which he's become accustomed since Sy Devore (he clothes Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis, Sammy Davis Jr., etc. etc.) was commissioned by Liz to tailor him. Instead, he wears baggy tweeds and loose-fitting sweaters. He looks like Richard Burton probably would like to look in 10 years — very comfortable.

Liz, who is now en route to her 34th birthday, also adds about 10 years — she's supposed to be 45 — and although the role calls for her to be overweight, drunk and vociferously disorderly, we must admit she looks pretty good.

The change starts with the added 12 pounds Miss T. was ordered to add, a not-too-unpleasant assignment for Liz who admittedly has an excellent appetite. "But," she laughed, "wouldn't you know it, no matter how hard I try and no matter how much I eat, I can't seem to add more than 12 pounds!"

Liz has donned a generously grayed wig, the hair-length medium and tousled. Her eyelids have been given a slight droop, her mouth also is lipstick-much fuller, and with a slight downward trend at the corners. The wardrobe is low-cut you-know-where.

Burton is mightily pleased with the way his wife looks at "45." "Matter of fact," he smilingly told her in our presence, "if you look this good when you really are 45, I may keep you around for a while!"

The Burtons spar with each other constantly, tossing pleasant barbs back and forth, delighting in trying to outdo each other in insults. But, they obviously are enjoying the fact they participate in this love game because of their seemingly solid partnership — personal and professional.

This has been the first time they've enjoyed a visit to Los Angeles, the reason being because they haven't had to live out of a suitcase.

"I'd like to live here three months of the year," Burton said. But Liz countered with, "Not I." Her negative answer purely to argue with her husband. She also likes it here because of old friends as well as the fact her parents live here.

"I'd rather live in — London, Paris, Switzerland, Spain, Mexico, etc., etc.," she rambled on. The Burtons own two houses in Switzerland, one in London, another in Ireland, plus two in

Big Cities Deny GOP Claim That Criminals in Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of some of the nation's largest cities disagreed today with a Republican charge that crime rates can be traced to a surrender to criminals by big-city political machines.

A panel of top Republicans, in a report issued Sunday night in Washington, said municipal leaders "have, in effect, confessed that criminals, not the police, lawlessnes, not the law, are in control."

"Insofar as surrendering, we've done the opposite," said a spokesman for Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, a political independent.

"Obviously, New York is not one of the cities they have in mind," said a spokesman for Mayor Robert F. Wagner, a Democrat who will be succeeded by a Republican Jan. 1.

Those comments were typical of the reaction of officials in big cities across the country — that the Republicans must have had some city in mind other than their own. The Republican panel named no cities in the report.

The report, prepared by a coordinating committee task force headed by Robert Taft Jr., a former Ohio congressman, said in part:

"There are sectors in most of our large cities where crime is so rampant that citizens are advised to stay away. Administrators in some cities have really ceased to make an adequate effort to prevent crime in these sectors."

"Urban local government has become so large, party machinery so cumbersome, federal and state controls so confusing that many people feel that their governments are no longer related to them."

"We suggest that some of the present difficulties are related to the development of large urban political machines. Citizens feel no sense of loyalty to governments dominated by such machines."

Minor Wilson, chief administrative aide to Police Supt. Orlando W. Wilson of Chicago, said: "It seems hard for me to believe that they really arrived at that conclusion. It seems almost absurd."

"The essence of Supt. Wilson's reorganization of the Chicago police force was to effect more centralized control of police operations. Before that time the police had been district controlled. The situation was not good."

The spokesman for Detroit Mayor Cavanagh said the city has no political machine because of its nonpartisan government. In fighting crime, he said the city has increased police salaries 26 per cent over the past four years, provided other incentives to the police and supports the force in all possible respects.

In Boston, Mayor John F. Collins, a Democrat, said: "I have to disagree as far as Boston is concerned. Far from surrendering, we have accelerated our drive against organized crime."

A spokesman for Mayor Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles said there are no areas in Los Angeles where citizens are advised to stay away because of lawlessness. He said the city is doing the best job possible with 5,000 policemen in a city of 459 square miles.

A spokesman for Mayor John F. Shelley of San Francisco, a Democrat, pointed out that the city's charter makes its offices nonpartisan.

"With our form of city government here, with the mayor working with a board of supervisors representing both parties, I don't think the statement applies to us," he said.

Couple Held In Death of Small Boy

CLEVELAND (AP)—A West Side couple in whose home a 21-month-old boy was found dead were being held without charge for questioning by police today.

Police arrested the couple Sunday in their investigation of the death of Walter Martin. A hospital spokesman said the child suffered multiple cuts and bruises, and possible skull fracture and possibly other fractures.

The coroner is to rule on the cause of death.

Police said the couple, identified as John Scina, 53, and his wife, Mary, 56, had been caring for the child since last Sept. 3.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Correne Martin, 36, told detectives she left her son with the couple because of family troubles.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The Princess says the Voodoo man has no power over real live people. When the Voodoo man comes to Zabbazara Mr. D suggests he and the boy save the others by pretending to be Santa and the Princess.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
DRESSING UP

Santa and the Princess rushed back to the palace with Mr. D and the little boy.

Mr. D put on Santa's long red coat and his red britches and his black boots. He stuffed two fat pillows in the front of his trousers and one behind. Santa got out the Princess's paint box and painted Mr. D's cheeks bright red. He put an extra bright dab on the tip of Mr. D's nose.

The little boy dug in his pockets and handed Mr. D two balls of bubble gum. Mr. D put one ball in each cheek and his face was as plump and rosy as Santa's.

The Princess got out her best white feather hat and snipped away at the feathers until they were shaped just right. Mr. D fastened the hat under his chin with an elastic band. When he was done not even Santa could tell which one was who or who was which one.

Then it was the little boy's turn. The Princess gave him her most elegant gown—white and gold with a red velvet train. He put it on backwards and sideways and even upside down before he got it on right. Every step he took he tripped over the velvet train until the Princess showed him how he could carry it over his arm if he absolutely must.

Finally she put a wig of golden curls on his head.

"You look beautiful!" exclaimed the Princess. "I only wish I looked so!" She looked down at herself in dismay, for she was wearing the little boy's discarded clothing.

"You're still the Princess," said the boy shyly. "You are still —"

He was interrupted by Mr. D, who was standing guard at the window. "Here he comes! He is just walking through the gates!"

Santa and the Princess fled from the room. The little boy climbed on the Princess's throne. He arranged the velvet train around his feet. Mr. D sat on a stool at the side of the throne. Quaking inside, they waited for the Voodoo man to appear.

A feather from his whiskers tickled Mr. D's nose. He tried to blow it away. It only tickled more. Finally he just had to sneeze and he did — an enormous "Kerchoo!" — so enormous that both balls of bubble gum shot out of his mouth and clear across the room.

"You won't laugh long for I have you in my power."

At this very moment the Voodoo man appeared in the door and was struck twice in the eye by the flying gum.

He looked so funny and so surprised the little boy couldn't help laughing, though he was shaking with fright. The Voodoo man was furious. He scowled. "Laugh now. But you won't laugh long, for I have you in my power."

Mr. D cleared his throat and said in a quivering squeak, "You aren't so big! Your spell didn't work on me in Santa Land!"

"It worked on all your workers. Now I'll take care of you and the Princess together, and Santa Land will be no more."

The little boy was shaking all over but he thought he ought to say something so he said, "Phooey!" in a very loud voice.

The Voodoo man's face turned white with rage. He rubbed his brows and muttered to himself. He brushed one foot hard against the other and turned around three times in one spot.

Then he pointed at Mr. D and the boy and said, "Marshmallows!"

Richard Burton
Color him a college prof!

Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis, Sammy Davis Jr., etc. etc.) was commissioned by Liz to tailor him. Instead, he wears baggier tweeds and loose-fitting sweaters. He looks like Richard Burton probably would like to look in 10 years — very comfortable.

Liz, who is now en route to her 34th birthday, also adds about 10 years — she's supposed to be 45 — and although the role calls for her to be overweight, drunk and vociferously disorderly, we must admit she looks pretty good.

The change starts with the added 12 pounds Miss T. was ordered to add, a not-too-unpleasant assignment for Liz who admittedly has an excellent appetite. "But," she laughed, "wouldn't you know it, no matter how hard I try and no matter how much I eat, I can't seem to add more than 12 pounds!"

Liz has donned a generously grayed wig, the hair-length medium and tousled. Her eyelids have been given a slight droop, her mouth also is lip-sticked much fuller, and with a slight downward trend at the corners. The wardrobe is low-cut you-know-where.

Burton is mighty pleased with the way his wife looks at "45." "Matter of fact," he smilingly told her in our presence, "if you look this good when you really are 45, I may keep you around for a while!"

The Burtons spar with each other constantly, tossing pleasant barbs back and forth, delighting in trying to outdo each other in insults. But, they obviously are enjoying the fact they participate in this love game because of their seemingly solid partnership — personal and professional.

This has been the first time they've enjoyed a visit to Los Angeles, the reason being because they haven't had to live out of a suitcase.

"I'd like to live here three months of the year," Burton said. But Liz countered with, "Not I." Her negative answer purely to argue with her husband. She also likes it here because of old friends as well as the fact her parents live here.

"I'd rather live in — London, Paris, Switzerland, Spain, Mexico, etc., etc.," she rambled on. The Burtons own two houses in Switzerland, one in London, another in Ireland, plus two in

Big Cities Deny GOP Claim That Criminals in Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of some of the nation's largest cities disagreed today with a Republican charge that zooming crime rates can be traced to a surrender to criminals by big-city political machines.

A panel of top Republicans, in a report issued Sunday night in Washington, said municipal leaders "have, in effect, confessed that criminals, not the police, lawlessness, not the law, are in control."

"Insofar as surrendering to the criminal is concerned, we've done the opposite," said a spokesman for Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, a political independent.

"Obviously, New York is not one of the cities they have in mind," said a spokesman for Mayor Robert F. Wagner, a Democrat who will be succeeded by a Republican Jan. 1.

Those comments were typical of the reaction of officials in big cities across the country — that the Republicans must have had some city in mind other than their own. The Republican panel named no cities in the report.

The report, prepared by a coordinating committee task force headed by Robert Taft Jr., a former Ohio congressman, said in part:

"There are sectors in most of our large cities where crime is so rampant that citizens are advised to stay away. Administrators in some cities have really ceased to make an adequate effort to prevent crime in these sectors."

"Urban local government has become so large, party machinery so cumbersome, federal and state controls so confusing that many people feel that their governments are no longer related to them."

"We suggest that some of the present difficulties are related to the development of large urban political machines. Citizens feel no sense of loyalty to governments dominated by such machines."

Minor Wilson, chief administrative aide to Police Supt. Orlando W. Wilson of Chicago, said: "It seems hard for me to believe that they really arrived at that conclusion. It seems almost absurd."

"The essence of Supt. Wilson's reorganization of the Chicago police force was to effect more centralized control of police operations. Before that time the police had been district controlled. The situation was not good."

The spokesman for Detroit Mayor Cavanagh said the city has no political machine because of its nonpartisan government. In fighting crime, he said the city has increased police salaries 26 per cent over the past four years, provided other incentives to the police and supports the force in all possible respects.

In Boston, Mayor John F. Collins, a Democrat, said: "I have to disagree as far as Boston is concerned. Far from surrendering, we have accelerated our drive against organized crime."

A spokesman for Mayor Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles said there are no areas in Los Angeles where citizens are advised to stay away because of lawlessness. He said the city is doing the best job possible with 5,000 policemen in a city of 453 square miles.

A spokesman for Mayor John F. Shelley of San Francisco, a Democrat, pointed out that the city's charter makes its offices nonpartisan.

"With our form of city government here, with the mayor working with a board of supervisors representing both parties, I don't think the statement applies to us," he said.

Couple Held In Death of Small Boy

CLEVELAND (AP)—A West Side couple in whose home a 21-month-old boy was found dead were being held without charge for questioning by police today.

Police arrested the couple Sunday in their investigation of the death of Walter Martin. A hospital spokesman said the child suffered multiple cuts and bruises, and possible skull fracture and possibly other fractures.

The coroner is to rule on the cause of death.

Police said the couple, identified as John Scina, 53, and his wife, Mary, 56, had been caring for the child since last Sept. 3.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Correne Martin, 36, told detectives she left her son with the couple because of family troubles.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The Princess says the Voodoo man has no power over real life people. When the Voodoo man comes to Zabbazara Mr. D suggests he and the boy save the others by pretending to be Santa and the Princess.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN DRESSING UP

Santa and the Princess rushed back to the palace with Mr. D and the little boy.

Mr. D put on Santa's long red coat and his red britches and his black boots. He stuffed two fat pillows in the front of his trousers and one behind. Santa got out the Princess's paint box and painted Mr. D's cheeks bright red. He put an extra bright dab on the tip of Mr. D's nose.

The little boy dug in his pockets and handed Mr. D two balls of bubble gum. Mr. D put one ball in each cheek and his face was as plump and rosy as Santa's.

The Princess got out her best white feather hat and snipped away at the feathers until they were shaped just right. Mr. D fastened the hat under his chin with an elastic band. When he was done not even Santa could tell which one was who or who was which one.

Then it was the little boy's turn. The Princess gave him her most elegant gown—white and gold with a red velvet train. He put it on backwards and sideways and even upside down before he got it on right. Every step he took he tripped over the velvet train until the Princess showed him how he could carry it over his arm if he absolutely must.

Finally she put a wig of golden curls on his head.

"You look beautiful!" exclaimed the Princess. "I only wish I looked so!" She looked down at herself in dismay, for she was wearing the little boy's discarded clothing.

"You're still the Princess," said the boy shyly. "You are still —"

He was interrupted by Mr. D, who was standing guard at the window. "Here he comes! He is just walking through the gates!"

Santa and the Princess fled from the room. The little boy climbed on the Princess's throne. He arranged the velvet train around his feet. Mr. D sat on a stool at the side of the throne. Quaking inside, they waited for the Voodoo man to appear.

A feather from his whiskers tickled Mr. D's nose. He tried to blow it away. It only tickled more. Finally he just had to sneeze and he did — an enormous "Kerchoo!" — so enormous that both balls of bubble gum shot out of his mouth and clear across the room.

"You won't laugh long for I have you in my power."

At this very moment the Voodoo man appeared in the door and was struck twice in the eye by the flying gum.

He looked so funny and so surprised the little boy couldn't help laughing, though he was shaking with fright. The Voodoo man was furious. He scowled. "Laugh now, but you won't laugh long, for I have you in my power."

Mr. D cleared his throat and said in a quivering squeak, "You aren't so big! Your spell didn't work on me in Santa Land!"

"It worked on all your workers. Now I'll take care of you and the Princess together, and Santa Land will be no more."

The little boy was shaking all over but he thought he ought to say something so he said, "Phooey!" in a very loud voice.

The Voodoo man's face turned white with rage. He rubbed his brows and muttered to himself. He brushed one foot hard against the other and turned around three times in one spot.

Then he pointed at Mr. D and the boy and said, "Marshmallows!"

Tomorrow: The Spell That Failed

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Dec. 20, the 354th day of 1965. There are 11 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1803, a crowd filled what is now Jackson Square in New Orleans as the Tri-color of France was lowered and the Stars and Stripes rose in its place. The French turned over control under terms of the Louisiana Purchase.

In 1790, the first successful cotton mill in America was opened at Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

In 1860, South Carolina seceded from the Union, the first state to do so.

In 1922, Russian republics combined as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

In 1941, Adm. Ernest King was named commander in chief of the U.S. fleet.

In 1943, U.S. B29 planes bombed the German city of Bremen.

Ten years ago — Harold Macmillan became chancellor of the exchequer in a major shakeup of the British Cabinet.

Five years ago — Israeli Ambassador Abraham Harman told Secretary of State Christian Herter that reports Israel was developing atomic bombs were untrue.

One year ago — A large number of political leaders were arrested as South Viet Nam military men took control of the government.

Bank Prudence Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has reminded national banks that they should be prudent in raising time deposit interest rates. Earlier this month, the board OK'd a maximum of 5.5 per cent interest, up 1 per cent.

Christmas Party Conducted for Carriers of The Herald

FREE-FOR-ALL — The 27 carriers of The Herald were treated to refreshments Saturday prior to press time. Dozens of hamburgers were brought in for the hungry youths in addition to several cases of softdrinks, potato chips and cookies. One continuous line was formed in front of the serving table.

EXCITED ABOUT CHRISTMAS — The Herald carriers, during a party on Saturday, were excited about the coming holidays. Many of them indicated they were using bonuses to buy gifts for their parents, brothers and sisters. A group of the youths is pictured here "enjoying the party."

EATING AND BOASTING — Some of the carriers during the party Saturday were boasting of the cash gifts they had received from their customers this holiday season. One youngster said he had netted nearly $30 already. The carriers sat around eating and enjoying softdrinks about an hour before they started out on their daily routes.

Circleville Wrestlers Earn Third at Walnut Ridge Meet

The Circleville wrestling team finished third in a triangular meet Saturday at Walnut Ridge.

Winning the round robin event was Groveport, with 56 points. The host school had 47 and Circleville 38.

The Tigers had two champions in the meet, although Edward Shaffer was the only undefeated grappler.

Craig Benzenberg was decided 7-5 in his first match by a Groveport wrestler. He came back to win his second bout against Walnut Ridge, pinning his foe in 2:21. In the match between his two foes, the Walnut Ridge man won, giving Benzenberg first place in the 127-pound class.

SHAFFER, the only undefeated grappler on the Tiger team won his first match, 11-8, and his second by pinning a Groveport wrestler in 3:40.

In previous action, Shaffer battled to a draw against Whitehall and won by default against Hamilton Twp.

In the 10 3-pound class, Steve Nelson lost both his matches. Bruce Pontious was decided and pinned in his two matches.

John Butts was decided and then won his second match by a decision.

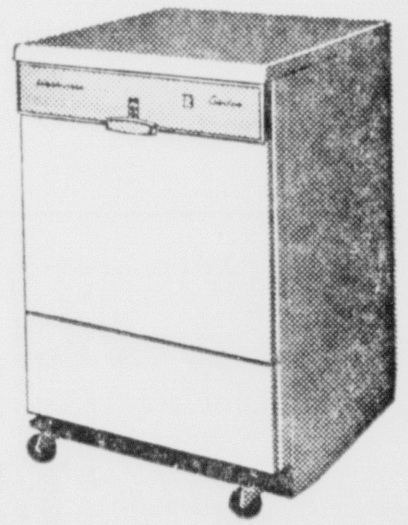

Dean Martin lost both his matches in the 133 pound class. Carl Hoffman was pinned twice. Ronnie Miller was decided his first time out and then pinned his foe in the second match. Darryl Bass won his first event by default, but was decided in his second.

Jim Archer was pinned and decided in two times out and Tom Fletcher was twice decided.

Late Free Throws Give TV Vikings 59-54 Decision

BACK IT GOES — Gayle Fosnaugh goes up with a Bishop Hartley eager in a battle for a rebound during the second half of Saturday's game at Teays Valley. The Viking at the right is Rodney Teets.

By BILL DORE' With 18 seconds remaining in the game, Butch Kinsell cased in on both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation to break a deadlock that fashioned a second Teays Valley win in as many nights Saturday. The Vikings posted a 59-54 verdict over the Bishop Hartley Hawks.

Following Kinsell's two tosses, the 5-10 senior was caught committing a foul and gave the Hawks new life as Denny Parker made the charity to bring his team within one point.

Gerald Green was fouled and the Viking captain added a pair from the charity stripe.

Gayle Fosnaugh, fouled as the buzzer sounded, canned two free throws after the game ended.

When Alabama met Texas in the 1965 Orange Bowl, it marked the Crimson Tide's 18th bowl appearance. Alabama has a 10-6-2 bowl record.

Laurelville Edged, 72-70, By Unioto

Laurelville reached the half-way point in its basketball schedule, losing to Unioto, 72-70, Saturday in a Scioto Valley Conference game on the Shermans' floor.

The Wildcats played without their big center, 6-3 Dwight Woodward, whose father died Saturday.

Outscoring Unioto from the field by 16 points, the Wildcats converted only 10 of 20 shots from the foul line. The host school hit 28 of 45 tries.

Rick Unger had 24 markers for the winners and Steve Hettinger scored 19.

FOR THE UNIOTO quintet, Glen Cokounger notched 19. The Wildcats have a 7-3 overall record for the season. In SVC action, they are 1-1.

The Unioto reserve squad won, 63-38.

The next action for the Wildcats is in the Zane Trace Holiday tournament Dec. 29 and 30.

Charged-Up Chiefs Win

Mack Hill's Sub Sets Torrid Pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "I was playing his position and I wanted to play it as he would have," said Kansas City's Curt McClinton. "I dedicated myself to do it the way he would have done it."

The position McClinton was playing belonged to his roommate and teammate Mack (The Truck) Hill, who died suddenly last Tuesday from complications arising over a knee operation.

And McClinton, shifted from his normal halfback position, scored one touchdown and set up three others by grabbing five passes for 213 yards as the emotionally charged Chiefs out-slugged Denver 45-35 Sunday in an American Football League game.

McClinton scored on an 11-yard touchdown run and set up three others scores with key receptions of 52, 12 and 69 yards en route to a total gain of 228 yards for the game. His one-man show even impressed his teammates, all of whom had dedicated the game to Hill.

"Curtis showed super-human effort," said quarterback Len Dawson. "That was a sensational effort," said punt return specialist Frank Jackson.

While the Chiefs and Broncos closed out their regular seasons, San Diego and Buffalo tuned up for the championship game next Sunday, the Chargers defeating Oakland 24-14 and the Bills dropping a 14-12 decision to the New York Jets.

Boston walloped Houston 42-14 Saturday as Gino Cappelletti of the Patriots produced 28 points for a season total of 132 while winning the scoring title for the third consecutive year.

Guy Busch, sophomore soccer star at Michigan State, played for the St. Louis Kutis Juniors, winners of the U. S. national title two straight years.

Westfall Wins 5th Straight Tilt

Westfall High School won its fifth basketball game in a row Saturday night, defeating visiting Huntington of Ross County, 59-40.

The Mustangs got off to an early lead and were never seriously threatened by the Huntsmen.

The score at the end of the first period was 15-8. At half-time, Westfall held a 33-21 advantage and carried a 45-30 point spread into the last quarter.

Brad Thompson, a senior guard who saw little action last year, had a hot hand for the Mustangs. He warmed the nets with eight of 12 shots lofted toward the bucket for a total of 16 points.

TOM HAMMAN connected on seven field goals for 14 markers. Neil Coleman fired five field goals and one foul shot.

For Huntington, Kellough also tallied 16 markers. Thompson held Huntsmen high scorer Jett to five points.

It was the fifth win for the Mustangs, who dropped their first game of the season by one point to Jonathan Alder, defending District co champion.

The Mustangs canned 26 of 51 tries for a 50 per cent average. At the foul line, they connected on seven of 15 shots.

The Mustangs outrebounded their foes, 34-28, with Beard pulling 10 off the boards. Tom Scribner and Coleman had eight each.

The Huntington reserve team won, 37-17.

Next action for the Mustangs comes Dec. 29 when they host Unioto in a Scioto Valley Conference game.

Logan Elm's Defense Stops A-C as Braves Win, 65-38

THERE IT IS — Don Benner (right) seems to be pointing out the basketball to his Logan Elm teammate Ken Palmer (left) in a scramble during the Braves game with the Amanda-Clearcreek Aces Saturday night. In the background is Danny Dahl (22) of Logan Elm.

Logan Elm's Braves had little trouble Saturday picking up their sixth win of the basketball season as they downed visiting Amanda-Clearcreek, 65-38.

The Braves completely throttled the Aces' offense in the first period, holding the visitors to a single charity throw.

Meanwhile, Logan Elm was scoring 18 markers. At half-time the score stood at 32-10, and going into the fourth period, it was 48-20.

The Braves' two starting forwards, Russ Merrin and Don Schaal, spearheaded the winning offense with 24 and 17 points respectively.

MERRIN canned 11 field goals and two foul shots. Schaal had four two-point tallies and notched nine at the charity stripe. Both sat out most of the final quarter, as Coach Keith Merrin went to his bench early in the game.

Also breaking into the scoring column for Logan Elm were Tom Smith and Steve Fouch with five each Ken Palmer, Darryl Reichelderfer and Gregg Fraunfelder with four each and Danny Dahl with two.

For the losers, Phil Smith tallied 13 markers and Gary Young had 12.

The Braves will lay their 5-1 record on the line Dec. 29 and Dec. 30 at the Zane Trace Holiday tournament.

Logan Elm will meet Huntington in the second game of the event. Zane Trace and Laurelville are scheduled to tangle at 7 p. m. and the Braves and Huntsmen at 8:30.

In Saturday's reserve game, Eddie Young scored 10 points for Logan Elm as the Little Braves won, 65-38.

Late Free Throws Give TV Vikings 59-54 Decision

By BILL DORE

With 18 seconds remaining in the game, Butch Kinsell cashed in on both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation to break a deadlock that fashioned a second Teays Valley win in as many nights Saturday. The Vikings posted a 59-54 verdict over the Bishop Hartley Hawks.

Following Kinsell's two tosses, the 5-10 senior was caught committing a foul and gave the Hawks new life as Denny Parker made the charity to bring his team within one point.

Gerald Green was fouled and the Viking captain added a pair from the charity stripe.

Gayle Fosnaugh, fouled as the buzzer sounded, canned two free throws after the game ended.

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — With 1965 ebbing rapidly, businessmen turned their sights during the week on 1966. What they saw looked good.

It was the time of year for them to speak out about what they expected in the year to come.

They were almost unanimous in predicting that next year will be about as good as 1965, which was a good one indeed.

There was little talk about the danger of inflation, and those who mentioned it minimized its peril.

Frederic G. Donner, chairman of General Motors Corp., the world's biggest manufacturer, predicted that 1966 would be another boom year for the automobile industry.

"With continued consumer confidence, products that the public wants to buy, and a further expansion of employment and personal income, the 1965 level of sales of cars and trucks in the United States should be maintained," he said.

In 1965, sales of 9.3 million cars and 1.5 million trucks topped 1964 levels by more than 13 per cent.

Another automobile executive, Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., was equally optimistic.

"We detect no signs of strain in the automobile market and another good year for the economy should mean another good year for the automobile industry," he said.

Joseph L. Block, chairman of Ireland Steel Co., predicted a continued rise in steel consumption with a gain of perhaps 4 per cent in the first quarter of 1966, compared with the like period for 1965.

However, he said production in the first half of next year probably would range between 60-65 million tons, 8 to 15 per cent below the 1965 first half, when users were stockpiling steel as a hedge against a possible strike.

Other comment included: Austin T. Cushman, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co. — the one cloud on the horizon is increased paycheck deductions for medicare. But he predicted that in the spring of 1966 merchandise distributors would have gains of 5 to 6 per cent.

Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co., cited the escalation of the Viet Nam war among factors that would spur business and said he expected a 6 to 7 per cent increase in railroad net income as a reflection of freight gains.

John R. Kimberly, president of Kimberly-Clark Corp. — the expanding economy of 1966 should favor continued growth of sales and earnings for the pulp, paper and a paperboard industry.

John E. Swearingen, chairman of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana), predicted an increase in earnings of 5 to 10 per cent for the oil industry in the first half of 1966.

James W. Walter, chairman of Jim Walter Corp., said the construction industry was optimistic and predicted a rise in housing starts.

Joseph S. Wright, president of Zenith Radio Corp., said color television was "the hottest consumer item in many years" and forecast a 20 per cent gain for the industry in the 1966 first half.

Harness Racing in U.S. Shows Gain In Support for 22nd Straight Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio —Up $100 million in business and up more than a million in attendance — that's harness racing in 1965 as another chapter is written in the record of phenomenal growth shown by the sport since the close of World War II.

Through Nov. 30, 1964, harness racing showed a raceway attendance of 21,292,021. Through the same date this year, attendance stood at 22,506,970.

On the same dates, pari-mutuel wagering was $1,236,848,726 last year as compared to $1,335,576,025 in 1965.

This shows a five percent increase in attendance and an eight percent rise in pari-mutuel patronage, and marks the 22nd successive year of increases in both categories, during a period which has seen harness racing vault from lowly minor league status to a leading position in the nation's sports picture.

At the close of 1964, final totals showed 21,529,780 patrons and $1,260,516,636 wagered at the raceways.

Business was mighty fine for many drivers, as well, with Robert Farrington again reaching the 300-win plateau—the only American driver ever to do so. With a sensational late season surge at Maywood Park, Farrington pushed his total to 310 two short of his 1964 mark but far ahead of his closest rivals.

Billy Haughton, leading dash driver from 1953 through 1958, had more winners in 1965 than he ever had but still trailed Farrington by nearly a hundred. Haughton, however, regained the money-winning crown and should be near the 900,000 mark by year's end. At the start of December, he had collected purses of $886,840, and had 219 victories.

"Harness Horse of the Year" laurels were easily decided despite the many outstanding trotters and pacers seeing action. Bret Hanover was the overwhelming choice as 161 of 178 sportswriters and sportscasters gave the great three-year-old pacer the nod for the second straight year.

Owned by Richard Downing and trained by Frank Ervin, Bret Hanover set race records on both mile and half-mile tracks on his way to winning 21 of 24 starts and an all-time single-season record $340,975. His 1:55 at Indianapolis was the fastest ever raced by a three-year-old pacer and equalled Adios Harry's all-age record. His 1:57 on the half-mile track at Delaware is fastest for any age pacer.

Despite Bret sweeping the "Triple Crown" for the second time (Adios Butler did it in 1959), a rivalry similar to the Adios Butler-Bye Bye and Scott Frost-Gallopone duels of the past resulted when Adios Vic ended Bret's 35-heat winning streak at Springfield, Ill., and then ignored Bret Hanover's record 1:55 in the first heat of the Horseman Futurity at Indianapolis to take the second and third heats.

One of history's great trotting fillies also burst on the scene as Canadian-owned Armbr Flight proved herself best of an outstanding group of three-year-old trotters. Noble Victory dominated the early season trotting classics while Egyptian Candor surprised in winning the Hambletonian. But from then on it was all Armbr Flight as trainer-driver Joe O'Brien guided her to victory after victory including the fastest race mile ever trotted on a half-mile track — a 1:59.1 spin at Delaware.

There were sensational youngsters such as Kerry Way, Romeo Hanover and Bonjour Hanover in the two-year-old divisions and fine older horses such as Dartmouth, Race Time and Cardigan Bay, but — for all around excitement and record-breaking performances — 1965 belonged to the three-year-olds.

Unfavorable weather and track conditions at Du Quoin and Lexington trimmed the number of two-minute miles to 118, accomplished by 74 different horses.

Seven trotters accounted for 12 two-minute or faster clockings; while 67 pacers accomplished the "magic mile" on 106 occasions. Armbr Flight led the trotters with four, while Bret Hanover topped the pacing list with 13.

Those in the sport realize the benefits they enjoy from harness racing but the general public is ever increasingly aware of financial benefits by the flow of funds into state treasuries. Final figures won't be available for another month, but based on the eight percent increase in pari-mutuel wagering, it appears that about 105 million will enrich coffers in the states which legalize raceways.

Harness horsemen also profit as purses continue to soar. Again final figures are not available but should be an estimated 38 million.

Colts, Packers Set for Playoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The best quarterback the Baltimore Colts had going for them in their last-chance shot at the National Football League's Western Division title was John Brodie — of the San Francisco 49ers.

Baltimore kept alive Saturday as Tom Matte and veteran pickup Ed Brown quarterbacked them to a 20-17 squeaker over the Los Angeles Rams.

Then on Sunday, Brodie capped the finest season of his career by leading the 49ers to a 24-24 tie with Green Bay, leaving the Packers and Colts deadlocked at the top with 10-3-1 records.

Green Bay had a seven-point lead — and the division title apparently sewn up — with less than two minutes to go. But the 49ers surged back, so now the Packers and Colts will play off for the Western crown next Sunday at Green Bay, with the winner taking on the Cleveland Browns for the league championship Jan. 2.

Brodie's third scoring pass of the day, a 27-yarder to Vern Burke with 1 minute, 7 seconds to play, and Tommy Davis' conversion kicked tied it at San Francisco. Each team led twice, with the Packers taking a 21-17 advantage in the final period on Jim Taylor's five-yard run and going ahead 24-17 when Don Chandler kicked a 31-yard field goal with 1:48 left.

But in 41 seconds the 49ers got even on Kermit Alexander's kickoff return to the 29, a 15-yard penalty, four Brodie passes, and Davis' kick. The 49ers' quarterback star, in his ninth NFL season, clicked on 26 of 34 passes for an amazing 76.5 percent and 295 yards, and wound up the year with 30 TD strikes.

Rookie sensation Gale Sayers of Chicago extended his league record with his 22nd touchdown of the season and won the scoring title, but the Minnesota Vikings beat the Bears 24-17. The loss left the Bears with a 9-5 record, good for third place in the West.

Cleveland's Eastern champion Browns rallied for a 27-24 decision over St. Louis even though they had to play the last half without Jim Brown, who got his 21st TD of the year but also got kicked out of the game for fighting.

In other NFL action — Don Meredith's passing led Dallas over New York 38-20 and into the Playoff Bowl at Miami; Detroit outscored Philadelphia 35-28, giving the West a remarkable 13-1 superiority over the East in inter-division play this season; and Washington scored three times on Pittsburgh miscues for a 35-14 romp over the Steelers.

Jim Brown's Boot Seen Costing Him Scoring Title

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jim Brown never scored any points for the Cleveland Browns by kicking, but his boot Sunday may have cost him enough points to win the National Football League scoring crown.

The classy all-pro fullback was given that boot by the officials for fighting with defensive end Joe Robb of the St. Louis Cardinals at the end of the first half.

Robb also was ejected, but it did not cost him as much as it did Brown, who lost his duel with Chicago's Gale Sayers for the point title.

"I've only been kicked out of a game once before—I think two years ago," Brown said calmly in the locker room after the Eastern Division champion Browns scored without him in the last period for a 27-24 victory and a final 11-3 record.

"He (Robb) hit me once and when he did it a second time, I came back at him," Brown said. "It was one of those quick things and we shook hands almost immediately, but the officials took it more seriously." Teammates quoted Robb as saying Brown threatened him before the play and came at him with his elbow high and kicked him.

The officials simply said the two were kicking each other. Cleveland Owner Art Modell was angry. He apologized to Brown on behalf of the league and called the decision by the officials a "gross injustice."

"He's been kicked, beaten and gouged out there for many seasons and has never complained," Modell said bitterly. "Now once it matters to him, he has to be kicked out after years of injustice."

The incident almost overshadowed Frank Ryan's 13-yard scoring toss to Tom Hutchinson in the final 4½ minutes to win the game and safety Larry Wilson's defensive effort for the Cardinals.

Hutchinson was subbing for regular flanker Gary Collins, who suffered bruised ribs and sat out the second half. Collins is expected to be ready for the NFL championship game Jan. 2.

Wilson intercepted three Ryan passes and recovered a fumble to end another Cleveland threat. He sprinted 95 yards with one theft for the Cardinals' first score and his other grabs set up two more scores that gave St. Louis a 24-17 lead before Lou Groza kicked a field goal and Ryan hit Hutchinson.

Winnings Donated

LOUISVILLE (AP) — During the annual collection for underprivileged children, the Buechel Fire Department went around from door-to-door in their community.

Part of the department's collection included three uncashed tickets from Churchill Downs race track. One ticket turned out to be a winner and $6.20 went into the fund.

The incident almost overshadowed Frank Ryan's 13-yard scoring toss to Tom Hutchinson in the final 4½ minutes to win the game and safety Larry Wilson's defensive effort for the Cardinals.

Hutchinson was subbing for regular flanker Gary Collins, who suffered bruised ribs and sat out the second half. Collins is expected to be ready for the NFL championship game Jan. 2.

Wilson intercepted three Ryan passes and recovered a fumble to end another Cleveland threat. He sprinted 95 yards with one theft for the Cardinals' first score and his other grabs set up two more scores that gave St. Louis a 24-17 lead before Lou Groza kicked a field goal and Ryan hit Hutchinson.

Hidden Years Detailed

Only 3 of Christ's 33 Years Were Recorded

Editor's note — The first 30 years of Jesus' life went virtually unrecorded. That happened to him during that time? This is the first in a series of five articles in which AP Religion Writer George Cornell details what may have happened during those hidden years.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Out of the night, He came. Out of the shadows and the uncertainties, His life emerged. It was unknown, except in its consequences. He was reared and lived mostly in obscurity. Yet He gripped the world.

"If I glorify myself," He said, "My glory is nothing."

A curtain of silence surrounds the time of Jesus on earth. Of his 33 years, there are accounts of only three. Yet no other figure towers so great in world history. He dwelt as the least of men, in a dim corner of the unmentioned and unnoticed. Yet His name excels every name in the annals of mankind.

Questions cloak the story — whose beginning is called Christmas. Much of it is mystifying. Much is hidden. Yet there are ancient hints and clues to many missing elements.

From the bits of evidence it is possible to make out some of the undisclosed background—to glimpse the secret years of Jesus.

They lasted throughout childhood and manhood until he reached the age of about 30, at the start of his public ministry, when outraged neighbors drove him out of Nazareth.

The long, formative stage is unrecorded, except in fragmentary intimations. What circumstances shaped Him? What influences went into his development? What hard decisions led to his hour of destiny?

The concealed years began at his birth in a hillside cave on the edge of Bethlehem.

There, in desperation, a transient peasant couple from Galilee, Joseph and Mary, had taken refuge for the delivery of her son. It was not a pleasant setting, but fraught with discomfort, anxiety and difficulty.

The date was about 7 B. C.—not 1 A.D., as miscalculated in the modern calendar.

Herod the Great then ruled Israel. Scripture indicates that Jesus was born at least two years and likely three before Herod's death, which was in the old Roman year 750 (4 B.C.).

Scripture notes that the tax census requiring Joseph to register in Bethlehem took place while Quirinius was Rome's governor of Syria. Modern archeology has dated his term from 9 B. C. until 6 B. C. In that year, as determined centuries afterward by astronomical calculations, an extraordinary conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn formed a brilliant sphere low in the evening sky. A "star," says Matthew's Gospel, beckoned eastern sages, on their 1,200-mile journey of perhaps a year or more—in wonder and awe at what had transpired.

Months before they could arrive, however, Joseph, and his wife, Mary, obviously had decided to remain in Bethlehem, rather than return at once to Nazareth.

Old writings describe Joseph as an aged, hard-working man, a widower when he wed Mary, and her as about 16. The traditions indicate her sister, Salome, came to help them.

The child was called "Yeshua" or Jesus, a common name meaning the "Salvation of Jehovah." By usage, he would be known as Yeshua Ben Joseph, Jesus son of Joseph.

As a male child, and Mary's first-born, he would take on all the obligations and rights as the future head of the family.

At the end of her 40-day period of purification, as fixed in mosaic law, the couple took the boy to the temple in Jerusalem for his dedication to God.

Sertoma Club To Hear Talk By Dr. Lutz

Dr. C. F. Lutz, a district official of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be guest speaker at Wednesday's meeting of the local Sertoma Club.

Dr. Lutz was reared on a farm near Hallsville and is well known in this community.

He is conference superintendent of the North District of the Southeast Conference of the EUB Church.

Dr. Lutz is a graduate of Oberlin College and the Theological Seminary at Dayton. His address here will be in the way of a Christmas message.

The Sertoma meet will be a luncheon session, conducted at Prairie Lanes Recreation Center.

Injury Slight In 2-Car Mishap

Marilyn Wagner, 447 Watt St. was injured slightly today when she lost control of her auto. Her vehicle struck a parked car near her home.

She told police she had thrown a cigarette out the window, but it lodged on the door. She said she started to roll down the window to dislodge the burning cigarette. The car struck an auto owned by Jack Bivens, 451 Watt St., when she took her eyes from the road.

She sustained lacerations of the mouth and abrasions of the chin.

Old Coins Taken

A burglar made off with several old coins from the home of Floy Brobst, Route 4, it was reported today by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

couple apparently resided in Bethlehem, with the child almost entirely in his mother's care. The boy would remain a suckling until he was at least 2.

But sometime before that point, the foreign astrologers arrived, with their mystic interpretations and their gifts. The visit aroused suspicions of King Herod, whose fear of plots already had drenched his own household in blood.

He sent troops to destroy all Bethlehem nurslings up to the age of 2, a furious onslaught of screaming terror and massacre.

Warned beforehand in a dream, Joseph had gathered his family in the night, and fled southward toward Egypt, taking the boy, into the further isolation of exile.

The mark of the outcast was on Him, from the start.

West Germany To Seek Role in Nuclear Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Johnson open two days of talks today with the emphasis on Germany's effort to gain a larger role in Europe's nuclear defenses.

The Germans have no nuclear weapons and rely on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as a deterrent against what Erhard has said are 1,000 middle-range Soviet missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Erhard was expected to present a plan for expanded control of those nuclear weapons now in Western Europe.

Administration officials knew in advance the broad outlines of his proposal, but declined public comment until after Erhard fills in the details.

As understood prior to the German's arrival, this would involve general support for the British idea of an Atlantic Nuclear Force — ANF.

The Erhard-envisioned force, as understood in Washington, would be a fleet of American and British submarines equipped with Polaris missiles and jointly owned by interested nations. At the outset this probably would include the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands.

Thus, three nations — Germany, Italy and the Netherlands — would have a bigger say in the use of nuclear weapons.

Among those with Erhard in Washington are Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel.

They arrived late Sunday afternoon and were greeted by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

A state dinner was scheduled at the White House tonight.

Firemen Douse Tractor Blaze

Circleville Firemen were called to the north edge of town at 11:35 a. m. today when a tractor owned by Robert Liston, Route 1, caught fire.

Damage was estimated at $10 by the department.

Lt. Mike Brown said Liston was pulling a load of corn with the tractor.

Firm Elects Carpenter to VP Position

D. J. Carpenter, 713 N. Pickaway St., has been elected a vice president of John W. Eshelman & Sons.

Carpenter is general manager of Esaelman's Circleville plant. He will continue in this capacity.

A native of Circleville, Carpenter joined the Eshelman firm in 1930 when the company opened operations here.

He worked for several years in the plant in various capacities and later was transferred to the office where he served in many departments.

He was appointed general manager in 1956.

The new vice president attended the Circleville schools and the University of Michigan.

Carpenter is an elder in the Circleville Trinity Lutheran Church and a member of the board of directors of the Circleville Third National Bank. He is a past member of City Council and past president of the Pickaway Country Club.

It never touches a drop.

The Volkswagen is cooled by air. Not water. An ingenious advantage. Since air cannot freeze, the Volkswagen engine cannot. Even at temperatures below zero, it is safe and sound.

The VW has no radiator problems for an eloquently simple reason. It has no radiator.

Viz: It never needs anti-freeze. It never needs flushing out. There is no radiator hose to crack and leak and possibly lose expensive anti-freeze.

When drivers line up for anti-freeze etc. on the first bitter winter day, the VW owner is spared the annoyance.

Not to mention the expense. The Volkswagen has an equal advantage in hot weather.

Air cannot boil any more than it can freeze. Neither can the VW.

In bumper-to-bumper traffic, when tempers and water grow short, when cars sit at the side of the road waiting to cool, the little Volkswagen goes right on past.

It is above it all. Riding on air.
